Dick Spencer, creator of "Herky"

THE STORY OF A HAWK...

One day in June of 1948, SUI's "Herky" was hatched by cartoonist Dick Spencer, a faculty member and graduate of the State University of Iowa.

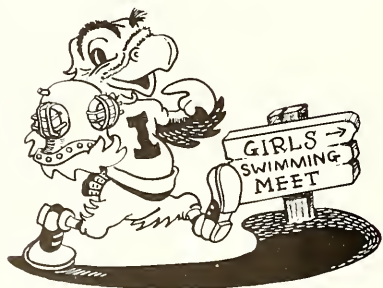

Spencer had received a "hurry up" memo asking for a versatile symbol for the black and gold spirit of the Hawkeyes.

Herky received his name after a statewide contest in July of 1948, and Dick Spencer himself admitted, "By the time homecoming rolled around, Herky was in!"

Adept at any sport or campus activity, Iowa's humorous and active hawk plays the same role as Wisconsin's badger or Minnesota's gopher. But he seems to assume more expressive animation in his own enthusiastic manner.

The 1950 HAWKEYE brings you Herky in his moments as a campus wheel, mountaineer, or perhaps a wary graduating senior. Whatever his role, he's definitely been acclaimed the B.H.O.C. —Big Hawk On Campus.

For those who seek a theme or dedication in this yearbook, and for all who have an interest in the State University of Iowa, we proudly present Herky.

SUI's President Writes:

It has been observed that we live in an "adaptive, not a static, civilization." This is a new thing in human history. Certainly older civilizations have changed, have altered their forms and customs, and have come to ends far removed from their beginnings. But they never experienced the accelerated rate of change which our civilization has experienced in the last century. Moreover the rate of acceleration appears to be increasing. Hence the problems of education are far different than they were in prior ages. Whereas, education formerly was designed to fit persons for a society not unlike that of their fathers and grandfathers, education must now fit students to live in a rapidly changing society, a society unlike that of their fathers and grandfathers, a society whose shape and pattern cannot be predicted.

Universities by their constant search for knowledge and by their education of men and women for the professions and specialties of our modern world stand at the very forefront of our civilization. Their continued existence, freedom, and prosperity are essential to the maintenance of our advancing civilization. If the lights of learning fail or flicker in the universities, they will fail or flicker everywhere.

More than a decade ago, Orlega Y. Gassett in "The Revolt of the Masses" expressed concern lest our civilization decline or perish because the very persons whom it sustains fail to understand the civilization which sustains them. The same dangers face our universities.

Religion, politics and education are subjects upon which everyone, even the most ignorant, has an opinion. Often the more ignorant the person, the more vehement and inflexible the opinion. Men, who would never think of prescribing a pill or trying a lawsuit, will discourse without knowledge or qualms on the education of youth. Yet few things are more complex and difficult than the education of youth.

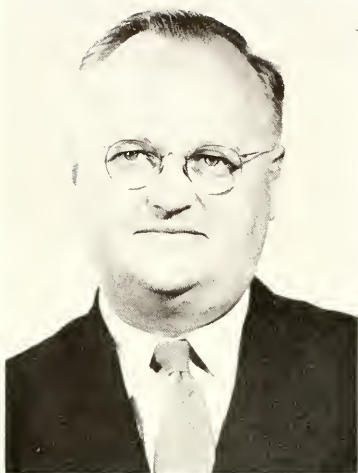

Ignorance can destroy, parsimoniousness can starve, chauvinism can enchain our universities. The lights of learning can go out as they went out in Germany and Japan, and as they have gone out in Russia, and as they will go out in China.

Your generation must see that the lights do not go out in America. By your example, the lights must be lighted once more throughout the world.

For forty-one years the State Board of Education has governed the state-maintained schools of Iowa. The State University of Iowa is one of five institutions coming under the jurisdiction of this board. The others are Iowa State College, the Iowa School for the Deaf, the Iowa School for the Blind, and the State Sanatorium. The seven men and two women of the board were appointed by the governor and were approved by the state senate. The finance committee members are appointed by the board from outside its membership. The board meets four times each year to appoint faculty and administrators, to approve finances and to formulate future plans for the Iowa schools. Henry C. Shull is president of the board and David A. Dancer is secretary of the finance committee.

CENTRAL PARTY COMMITTEE

DICK COLVILLE

Responsible for supervising all-university dances are the eleven members of the Central Party committee. The Fall Frolic, Christmas formal, All-University prom, Club Cabaret and May frolic were sponsored by the committee this year. The bands of Benny Strong, Dizzy Gillespie and Jimmy Dorsey were engaged for dancing, and the King Cole Trio and Woody Herman orchestra for concerts. Responsibilities for each event were rotated so that every member gained experience in publicity, decorations, selection of programs and themes for the dances. The six men and five women of this year's Central Party committee were chosen for one year terms from applications to the executive councils of the Union board and the student council.

Clarinetist Woody Herman starred in a concert of the modern music variety.

Nat "King Cole" won his SUI audiences with distinctive piano-vocal stylings.

"Woody" and his herd, with bongo drums and King Cole on hand, brought something different to the campus in a concert program.

WOODY HERMAN KING COLE CONCERT

The rhythm section caught off-guard during the Christmas formal dance. . . Jimmy proved to be a fabulous Dorsey with his varied arrangements.

ALL-UNIVERSITY CHRISTMAS FORMAL

Jimmy Dorsey satisfied the Christmas formal crowds with his top-notch music . . . WSUI aired part of the evening's entertainment . . . and Santa Claus was on hand to distribute pre-Christmas cheer.

Rules of the evening said that SUI coeds must pay for the evening, assume the escort's usual duties, and present him with an original corsage!

SPINSTERS SPREE

Dizzy Gillespie and his bop crew brought unique music with them—and it included good dance arrangements for the Spinsters Spree crowd.

Seeing double? The women are twins and their dates were identically dressed, to complicate matters.

"BARGAIN BALL"

Leo Cortimiglia and his combo drew admirers in the River Room, while a dance band provided music in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Highlight of the evening was an "auction"—two of the highest bidders received a hat autographed by Ezio Pinza, star of "South Pacific"; and a necktie from Arthur Godfrey—but the bidders didn't have to pay!

It was definitely a "Bargain Ball" and costumes looked like something from the hobo havens . . . included in the crowd was an alumnus of San Quentin—at least his coveralls said so.

The photographer wasn't exactly obvious, since he caught these couples before they had time to spy him!

Flowers 'n formal dresses instead of starched caps and uniforms—that was the order of the evening for the nurses at Caps Caprice.

A tea at Westlawn before the Caps Caprice dance gathered the nurses and their escorts for an informal reception.

CAPS CAPRICE

Attendants Marian Rees and Donna Belle Jones; Miss Jane Buckley, Queen; Shirley Anderson and Gladys Nelson, attendants.

CURRIER SWEETHEART DANCE

Currier took on a party atmosphere, particularly along the lines of formal dresses and flowers . . . the lounge provided a comfortable spot for sitting one out.

Miniature fraternity paddles served as dance programs . . .

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE PROM

. . . although it was "strictly formal",
the fun was informal.

The "Paddle Prom" was an evening for pledges of SUI's fraternities, and actives later heard that the pledges didn't miss 'em!

QUADRANGLE FORMAL DANCE

"Autumn Leaves" left Quad men and their dates with the impression that the dance was successfully planned by Chairman Bill Scott and his committee.

The beard contest during Mecca week was a pleasure for the men who didn't have to shave, but some of the SUI co-eds thought it was a little rough.

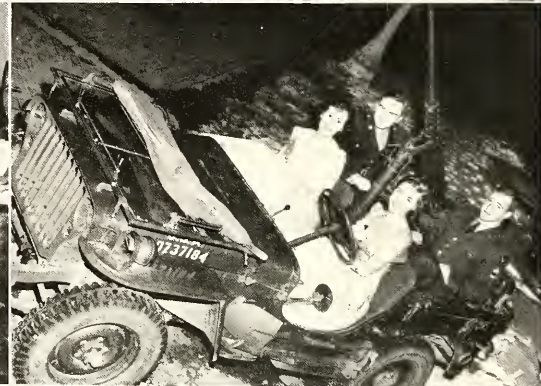

Some of the engineers' best friends didn't recognize them, but that was due to the cultivated camouflage grown by the slide rule set!

MECCA BALL

Miss Jean McCartt, Mecca Queen, reigned at the traditional dance, while St. Patrick was the center of a long-standing argument: whose patron saint is he—Lawyers or engineers?

TOP: Artie Shaw and his clarinet played for the homecoming dance . . . and Shelley Manne was part of the Woody Herman herd at the Herman-King Cole concert.

MIDDLE: Claude Thornhill's piano music was in the spotlight at the Interfraternity formal dance in January . . . the Military Ball gave ROTC men the chance to show their dates the comfortable angles of a jeep!

BOTTOM: Nat Cole was rated a success by his SUI fans . . . Mr. Artie Shaw again, broadcasting over WSUI . . . And here's Woody Herman once more, a favorite with college crowds.

BEAUTIES

Miss Sue Stevens, 1950 Hawkeye Beauty Queen

. . . was chosen from a field of half a hundred Iowa coeds by Milt Caniff, a competent judge of beauty as shown by the pulchritudinous women in his cartoon creation, "Steve Canyon".

Miss Stevens reigned as an attendant to the 1949 Dolphin Queen and was named 1950 Interfraternity Queen.

Tailfeathers Sparked SUI Cheers

As the Hawks circled about Big Ten athletic competition, fluttering near the Iowa U. nest were the Tailfeathers, students who prompted and sparked the enthusiastic cheering which accompanied this season's sports events. The pep club planned halftime entertainment at football and basketball games, assisted in the selection of cheerleaders, and sponsored pep rallies. More than 32,000 Homecoming badges were sold this year by Tailfeathers. Student trips to games played on other university fields formed the nucleus for student cheering. Organized in 1946, Tailfeathers now boasts a membership of 320, compared with last year's 130 participants. The 1950 sportsmanship award to the Iowa athlete who has done the most to further athletics at SUI went to Earl Banks, football guard.

Cheerleaders Presented New Stunts

One of the most unique and versatile squads in Iowa athletics was the group of eight tumbling, shouting cheerleaders, led in all sorts of spirited chants by Captain Vic Young. A practice exclusive with SUI cheerleaders is the use of trampolettes by tumblers Dick Turchen and Don Casady. Journeys to the Minnesota and Wisconsin football games were included among the duties of the yell leaders. Their enthusiasm was directed toward its most effective channels by Dick Holzaepfel, new advisor for Tailfeathers and the cheerleaders. Amusing antics at intermission were provided by "Herky the Hawk," symbol of Iowa athletic teams.

The "I" club, reorganized in December, 1949, is composed of major letter winners in baseball, basketball, football, golf, gymnastics, tennis, track, swimming and wrestling. Purposes of the club are to stimulate cooperation and unity among the various sports, promote greater student interest in all SUI athletics, further the concept of good sportsmanship at SUI and promote better cooperation among the student body, athletic department and alumni. The reorganization was promoted by Athletic Director Paul Brechler and Frank Havlicek, business manager of athletics.

Notre Dame 28	Iowa . . . 7

The 1949 edition of the Hawkeye eleven proved to be one of the best offensive squads to appear on the Iowa gridiron in many years. The Hawks smashed through nine opponents for 184 points, winning four and dropping five games. In Big Ten competition they won three and lost three, to gain fifth place in a tie with Illinois. Iowa lost its opener to UCLA, 41-25, but came back fighting the following week to stun Purdue, 21-7. Next it was Illinois who handed the Hawks their second defeat before the home crowd, 20-14. Then Eddie Anderson's squad won three straight at home. In the homecoming battle they swamped Indiana, 35-13; squeezed by Northwestern, 28-21, and amazed the Dad's Day crowd with a sensational last half comeback to defeat a stubborn Oregon team, 34-31. With the scent of roses in the air, Iowa took to the road, only to be buried under a Minnesota barrage, 55-7. Further humiliation was added the following week as Wisconsin smothered the Hawks, 35-13. All honor was restored in the final game as a fighting Hawkeye team held undefeated Notre Dame to four touchdowns and managed to score against the Irish, 28-7.

JIM MCKINSTRY

UCLA Overpowers Iowa, 41-25

UCLA blazed into Iowa City to renew football relations, and with plans to uphold Pacific Coast conference prestige. The Bruins did just that, with a final score of 41-25. Although out-gained in total net yardage, 447-275, the Uclans managed to gobble up five Hawk fumbles—three in the third period for touchdowns—to waltz away from the hard-fighting Hawkeyes. Iowa counted first in the second stanza, but UCLA bounced back with two touchdowns and were on top to stay. Hawk score No. 2 climaxed a 99-yard march near half-time, but UCLA led, 14-12, at the gun. An onrush of Uclan power and tactics pushed the score to 34-12. Two Iowa drives closed the gap, 34-25, but UCLA scored again for the final victory.

Commack carries the pigskin through a wall of players. . . .

Hawkeyes Roll Purdue, 21-7

The Hawkeyes opened their conference season with Purdue's Boilermakers at Lafayette and proceeded to display little respect for their erstwhile hosts by slamming the Riveters, 21-7. The "fumbleitis" which plagued Iowa throughout the UCLA contest threatened to rear its ugly head once more as Purdue snatched a Hawk bobble on Iowa's 10-yard stripe and scored. The Hawks roared back as Bob McKenzie snagged one of Glenn Drahm's pitches to score. Bill Reichardt booted the extra point to even the game. Fred Ruck sneaked over the goal marker minutes later for Iowa's second touchdown—and the Hawks were on top. After another score, Iowa was content to hold the margin, halting Purdue's driving attempts three times within the Iowa 10-yard line.

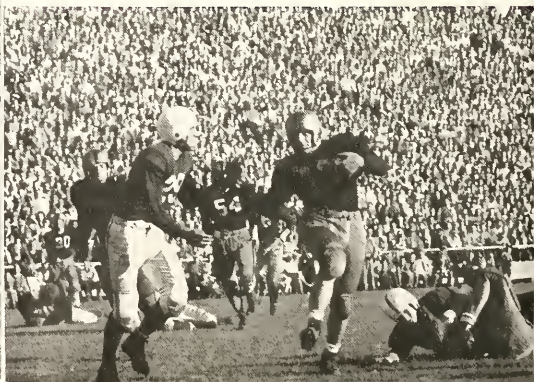

DON WINSLOW

Homecoming

Indiana, 35-9

Before a homecoming crowd of 44,000, the Hawkeyes powered their way to victory over an outmanned Indiana eleven, 35-9. The Hoosiers scored first, but Iowa roared back through the air and on the ground to score an impressive victory. After Indiana scored early in the first period, Bill Reichardt took a pitchout and went over from his own 15. With Reichardt kicking the extra point, Iowa led 7-6. When an Indiana drive bogged down on the eight-yard line, Don Henkle made a field goal good and Indiana again led, 9-7. From this point on, Iowa took over the game.

Illinois Stuns Iowa, 20-14

Reichardt reaches with eager fingers. . . .

DICK LASTER

Iowa's hopes for a second straight Big 10 victory ran down the drain as Illinois ground out a stunning 20-14 win. The defeat clouded Iowa's far-reaching ambition of a conference championship and a possible Rose Bowl bid. After a scoreless first period, Illini halfback John Karras sprinted 34 yards to a touchdown. Don Commack soon matched it with a Hawk touchdown, but Illinois struck back with two third-quarter touchdowns, raising the margin 20-7. Iowa marched 89 yards for its second score to get back in the ballgame. With time running out, Iowa snatched an Illini fumble near mid-field with a chance to gain a tie. Four of Glenn Drahn's passes failed to connect and Illinois took over on downs. The wearers of the orange and blue still possessed the oval when the game ended.

Hawkeyes Humble

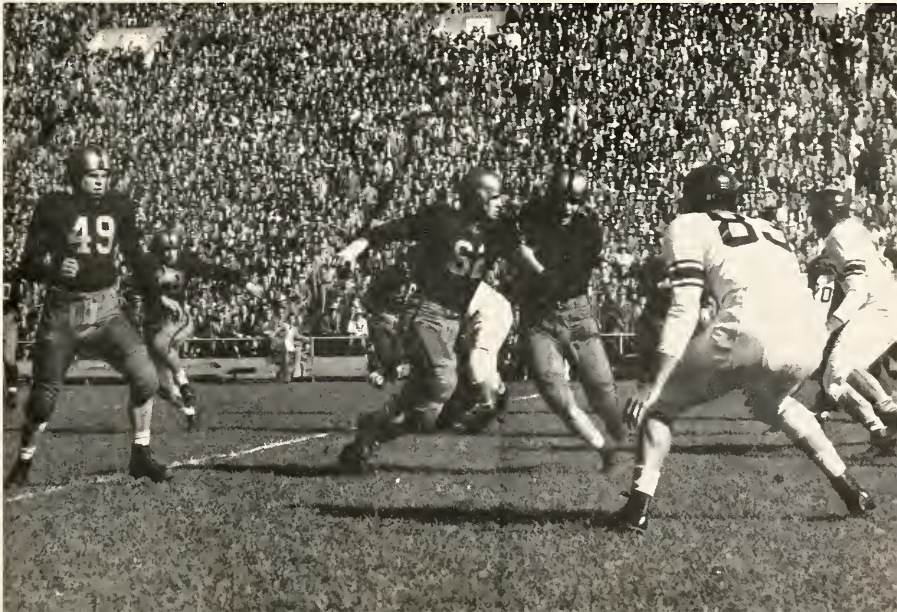

Northwestern, 28-21

BOB LONGLEY

Iowa's Hawkeyes dumped a favored Northwestern when a game-winning touchdown came after a wild fourth quarter with the score 21-21. Jack Dittmer raced behind the Wildcat defenders, snatched Fred Ruck's looping pass, and scored the winning touchdown. The Wildcats' "never-give-up" attitude carried them far downfield, only to have Duane Brandt filch a Don Burson pass in the end zone to kill the drive. Twice in the second period Iowa marched 60 yards to score. Hawk hopes were momentarily dimmed on the first drive when a penalty set them back near the 20, but Jerry Faske tore to his left and pitched a pass to Bob McKenzie for a touchdown. Minutes later, Jerry Long grabbed a Northwestern fumble on Iowa's 40, leading to another touchdown. The Wildcats regained poise with two touchdowns, and scoring swaps kept it tied until Dittmer broke up the game.

Brandt carries as Drahn, Geigel and Dittmer pave the way.

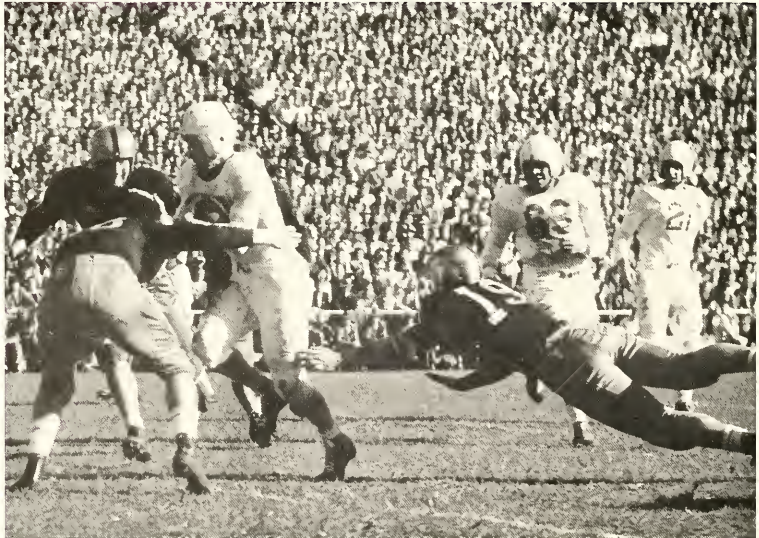

Iowa Bombards Oregon, 34-31

JACK DITTMER

The Hawkeyes charged out of the depths of near catastrophe in the fourth quarter to bombard Oregon with four devastating touchdowns in less than six minutes. Bob Longley's 94-yard goalward gallop in the waning seconds of period three was the feather that broke the Ducks' back, 34-31. Within three minutes Iowa counted again, via Jerry Faske's left-handed flip to end Jack Dittmer. But Oregon was not finished. John McKay slipped past Iowa's forward wall and sprinted 37 yards, making the score 31-20. Bill Reichardt hauled in Oregon's kick-off on his one-yard line and rambled through the entire Webfoot team for Iowa's fourth touchdown. A few breaths later the Dad's Day spectators saw Bob Hoff force Oregon's Bob Sanders to fumble and Iowa was paydirt-bound again.

Faske escapes a maze of Minnesota Gophers. . . .

Iowa's Rose Bowl-bound special got stuck in a Gopher hole as Minnesota struck through the air and on the ground to grind out a stunning 55-7 Big 10 victory. The Hawks managed to cross the pay-off line only once. Glenn Drahn pitched a seven-yard touchdown strike to end Bob McKenzie, climaxing a 65-yard march in the fourth period. Hawk fumbles plus the Gophers' "must win" attitude caused the score to mount to startling proportions. Minnesota's great back, Billy Bye, was the thorn in Iowa's side. The 175-pound "Gamboling Gopher" ran and passed the Hawks off the field. Minnesota scored in every quarter and counted 27 points in the final stanza. The Gophers led 21-0 at the intermission and climbed to a 28-0 advantage before Iowa scored the lone touchdown.

Wisconsin Wallops Hawkeyes, 35-13

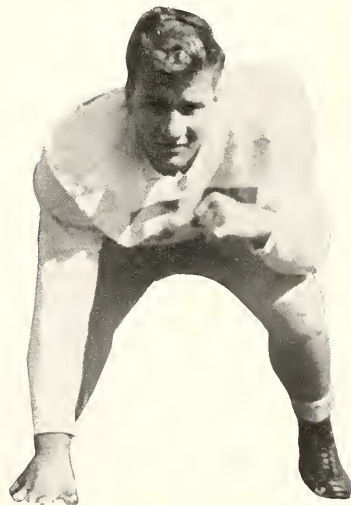

The Hawks wallowed their way through the mud at Camp Randall stadium and finished on the short end of the score, losing to Wisconsin, 35-13. The Badgers, fighting for their Homecoming victory, pushed across a pair of first-half touchdowns and then capitalized on Iowa's desperation attempts in the waning minutes of the game. The Hawks struck the first time in the third period as Glenn Drahn lofted an aerial to Don Commack, good for 29 yards and six points. Bill Reichardt missed the placement, his first after 15 straight, and Iowa trailed, 28-6. The Hawks' final tally came after a fourth-down pass had moved the pigskin to the Badger five. Bob Petruska's booming punts, two of which went out of bounds inside Iowa's one-yard line, kept the Hawks continually in the hole and led to two of Wisconsin's markers.

Irish Outscore Iowa, 28-7

The Hawks finished the 1949 season by holding a highly regarded Notre Dame eleven to a near standstill before bowing to the nation's top team, 28-7. Iowa's only touchdown came when Glenn Drahn spotted Bob McKenzie alone in the end zone and lofted a pass with success. Jerry Faske proved to be Iowa's chief ground threat. The speedy back lugged the pigskin 82 yards in 11 tries—more yardage than any Irish back gained. After Iowa tied the score, Notre Dame's emerald-jerseys crossed the goal line with a ground attack and two successful passes. The final Irish touchdown came with 45 seconds left in the game, when Notre Dame filched one of Drahn's passes. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams pitched a perfect aerial to Leon Hart for the score.

Freshman football at Iowa, just as at any college or university, plays a vitally important part in the athletic program. With the freshman coach is the responsibility to watch for "up and coming" gridiron hopefuls to bring into the varsity team. Those who have the ability to play intercollegiate football are given the chance to show what they can do—regardless of whether they were star performers for their high school squads. Among the bright prospects in the freshman ranks this year were Don Swartzendruber of Wellman, Clyde Gardner of Newton, Connie Jones of North Des Moines, Gene Hetrick of Iowa City, and Rudy Bukich of St. Louis.

ATHLETIC BOARD OF CONTROL

The general policy making body for Iowa's athletic department is the Board of Control of Athletics. The board is composed of 13 members, 11 of whom are SUI faculty members and the remaining two are faculty members. Besides determining policy, the board acts in a supervisory capacity for the athletic department and must pass on any appointments to the athletic staff. The latter is subject to approval of President Virgil M. Hancher. In order to pass on any action, the board must have a favorable vote from the majority of the faculty members. Any policy enacted by the board must be put into effect by the director of athletics.

"POPS" HARRISON

"BUCKY" O'CONNOR

ROLLIE WILLIAMS

1949-50 BASKETBALL SEASON

This was a good year for Iowa basketball. No conference championship was brought to Iowa City nor did any all-Americans grace the Hawkeye squad. Nevertheless, Iowans were well satisfied with the 1950 representatives. With only one regular on hand from the '48-'49 squad, prospects were far from bright as coach "Pops" Harrison prepared for the campaign. Thanks to an outstanding crop of sophomores, Iowa posted a record of 15 victories in 22 contests, including a 6-6 conference mark and a fifth place finish. It was a bizarre year too, as no less than three coaches guided the Hawks during the season. "Pops" Harrison, the regular mentor, started, but when ill-health forced him to the sidelines, Rollie Williams took over. Williams, assistant athletic director and former head coach here, served for three weeks and then returned the reins to Harrison. The fiery "Pops" was not physically up to the job, however, and after two conference games retired for the remainder of the year. Frank (Bucky) O'Connor, 36-year-old freshman coach, became the third occupant of the post, guiding the team for the majority of the conference race.

As usual, the Hawks had little difficulty in non-conference play. The customary breathers appeared on the schedule but there were victories of note, including a win over Notre Dame at South Bend. In conference competition the inexperienced Iowans were unable to win on foreign courts but balanced the road defeats with thrilling triumphs at home, such as the 65-64 squeaker against Indiana and a 70-65 victory over Illinois. After compiling a 3-3 record, the Hawks suffered their first loss at the fieldhouse to Wisconsin in an overtime heartbreaker. The road jinx, however, was also snapped as the maturing squad scored wins away over Indiana and Minnesota—a bright point in the season. Losing the season's finale to Minnesota cost Iowa a third place tie in the conference.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

As usual, Iowa's freshman basketball team did not play any formal games, but that did not obscure the fact that the 1949-50 frosh squad was well above average. From their intrasquad games, scrimmages with the "B" team, and general practice sessions, observers were able to spot a number of top-flight varsity prospects. Some of the leading names were Herb Thompson, high scoring all-stater from Forest City; Gene Hettrick and Whitey Diehl, former Iowa City stars; Bernie Bennet, all-state guard from Mason City; Bob Mau, all-state center at Charles City; Lee Eskilsen, clever forward from Gouverneur, N. Y.; Don Swartzendruber, all-around athlete from Wellman; and Don Bjork, from Albert City. Changes in the varsity coaching staff also affected the frosh team. When Bucky O'Connor relinquished his freshman duties to take over the varsity job, Jack Spencer, former star guard for the Hawkeyes and varsity assistant for the first part of the year, was given the job.

WRESTLING

Iowa wrestlers won 4 and lost 2 matches—three wins and two losses of which were Big 10. In the opening meet, the Hawkeyes edged Wisconsin, 15 to 11, by winning the last two events on the card. Iowa pulled a repeat performance in the next meet and came from behind in the last two events to down Wheaton college, 16 to 14, but was unsuccessful against Illinois in the next meet, losing 19 to 8. The Hawkeyes returned to the winning road by trouncing Northwestern, 23 to 5, but then lost to Michigan, 15 to 9. The Hawks came back and finished the season by polishing off Minnesota, 16 to 11. The illnesses of Vern McCoy, 121 pounder, and Captain George Tesla, 145 pounder, and a shoulder injury for heavyweight Joe Paulsen, proved to be a greater handicap than the hard working Hawks could overcome. The only bright spot for Old Gold was former Olympian Joe Scarpello, who became a four-time Big 10 champion by defending his 175-pound title against Northwestern's Tom Rogouzis. Scarpello has a string of 20 dual victories in the 175 pound class. Scarpello, Delbert "Junebug" Perrin, "Subby" Colanino, Ken Carman and Manuel Macias scored points in the 20th annual Big 10 wrestling championships, for which Iowa was host, to place the Hawkeyes fifth as Purdue defended its crown.

Iowa's swimming team, which was second in the Big 10 and NCAA meets in 1949, still had enough power to grab third place in the Western Conference meet. Minus All-American Wally Ris, the Hawks dropped three dual meets and finished first in two. Their conference record was two and two. Edward "Rusty" Garst splashed to a pair of crowns in the league meet as he won both the 50 and 100-yard free style sprints. Other conference places were gained by Bowen Stassforth, Jack Wilson, Duane Draves, Don Watson, and Iowa's two relay teams.

Florida Trip Highlighted Year's Activities . . .

Twenty-three Dolphin swimmers attended the annual National Collegiate Aquatic forum during the Christmas holidays in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, as one of the brightest points in another year of activity. In April, the club sent the Iowa team to the National A.A.U. at Ohio State, where Iowa swam to a third place in a field of power-laden teams from throughout the United States. Spring activities included a picnic at the quarries, near Iowa City, and a canoe trip from Lake Macbride down the Iowa river.

Iowa Resembled the Islands at the Dolphin Show . . .

Members of the Dolphin club began the year with the annual water pageant, a homecoming tradition at SUI. This year the theme was based on the Hawaiian Islands and the show was titled "Hawaii Calls". Five members of the swimming team played their ukeleles for the pageant, and for the first occasion within the memories of the SUI Dolphins, women were included in the water carnival. Twins Marilyn and Karilyn Adams, both champion synchronized swimmers, were a worthy addition to the show and won the approval of crowds who came to the entertaining presentation.

Palm trees were reflected in the Iowa fieldhouse pool, as Hawaiian melodies added atmosphere to the Dolphin show.

A high point in the entertainment this year were the authentic ukelele music and the traditional hula dances.

Decked out in multi-colored leis, the capacity crowd showed their approval of the novel atmosphere and good entertainment.

BOTTOM, RIGHT: It looks easy, but we have it on good authority that a water ballet requires perfect timing, much practice, and the ability to swim without splashing.

TRACK COACH FRANCIS CRETZMEYER

Iowa's new track coach, Francis Cretzmeyer, undertook the job of rebuilding the sport during the 1948-49 season. In their first dual meets, Iowa lost to Minnesota and Marquette; in a triangular meet with Wisconsin and Northwestern, the thinclads finished third. The 1950 season promised a definite step forward in Iowa track, as the rebuilding process entered its second year. Among the 26-man squad were 11 major "I" winners and many good sophomore prospects. The indoor season of 1950 was marked by victories over Marquette and Northwestern. The Hawks shared a second place tie with Purdue at Illinois. Russ Merkel swept both hurdle events and Marcellus Boston won the 60-yard dash to give Iowa three firsts. Merkel also took both barrier titles in the Illinois Tech relays in Chicago, and Boston edged out a Drake university entrant to capture the 70-yard dash crown.

Cross Country Squad Builds Record Team

SUI's 1949 cross country team, winning three out of four dual meets, had the best season's record in at least fifteen years. In dual meets, the Iowa harriers defeated Illinois, Notre Dame and Marquette. Their only loss was to Minnesota. The team finished fifth in the Big Ten championship run. Earle Duggan won the four mile run at Notre Dame and Marquette, and finished second in the Illinois race.

TENNIS SQUAD WINS FOUR DUAL MEETS

The 1949 Hawk netmen, although eighth in the conference championships, had a couple of bright spots in the season. They downed Indiana, 5-4, for their first league dual victory since 1940. In the conference meet, the Hawks were separated from third place Wisconsin by a mere $4\frac{1}{2}$ points. The overall dual meet standing for the 1949 season was four wins and five losses. Don Lewis, Bill Ball, Al Pierce and Mike Trueblood were returning lettermen for the 1949-50 season.

COACH OTTO VOGEL

Baseball Squad Wins Big Nine Title

One of the outstanding players in Iowa's rise to the top was All-American Lefty Jack Bruner. The deadly southpaw hurler established a new league strikeout record, fanning 66 batters in 61 2 3 innings, and pitching the Hawks to five league wins while losing only one—to Northwestern. Bruner's overall mark was 6-2, and he allowed only 37 hits in 71 2 3 frames. On the hitting side of the books, it was All-American Jack Dittmer who wielded the big stick. "Ditty" marked a strong .356 batting average for the 1949 campaign. He was closely followed by Captain Ed Browne with .333 and Bob (Pinky) Primrose with .325.

The Umpire peers through a cloud of dust—the runner was safe. . . . One skill a first baseman must master is stretching for a possible wild throw!

Coach Otto Vogel explains a play to several of the Hawkeye players.

An Illinois runner is forced to hit the dirt in a game which Iowa won, 3-0.

After a slow start early in the 1949 conference season, the Hawkeye baseball team settled down to vault into a three-way tie with Indiana and Michigan for the Big Nine title. The clear crown eluded Coach Otto Vogel's charges when they dropped the first of a two-contest series with Northwestern on the Hawk diamond. In their non-conference games, the SUI players compiled a 6-4 record for a season mark of 14-8. Included in the non-conference victories were wins over a pair of professional clubs, Rockford, Ill., and Clinton of the Central Association.

Jack Dittmer, a stellar player for the Hawks, found time to compete in football and basketball during his four years at SUI. . . . Catcher Bob Primrose was a dependable receiver for Iowa's pitching staff and aided the squad's batting average with a .325 season mark.

The Hawk golfers were consistent as the season progressed and pushed Iowa to its best golf record in several years. They finished fourth in the conference meet at Ann Arbor, ahead of touted Minnesota and Northwestern. In the NCAA championships at Ames, the Hawkeyes ranked 15th, topping such perennial powerhouses as Yale and California.

WRA offers many opportunities for service and leadership in recreation for all women on campus. An executive board composed of five officers, club presidents, the intramural and publicity chairmen and the faculty advisor rules on WRA activities. Included in a full calendar of special events were a freshman open house in September and a hockey sports day in November, when six colleges were represented. A "Penny Carnival" was another WRA function in February, and May saw the annual Orchesis recital. The intramurals board of WRA set up an extensive sports schedule this year so that women in every housing unit could compete for the intramural trophy, awarded to the group most active in participation. Specialized recreation is offered to SUI women by WRA clubs, all of which are open to non-majors as well as majors in physical education.

And there's the quiet and restful atmosphere of the "lounge" lobby at reserve, where icy winter winds whip in the door.

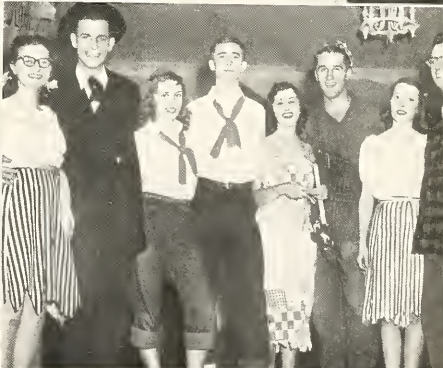

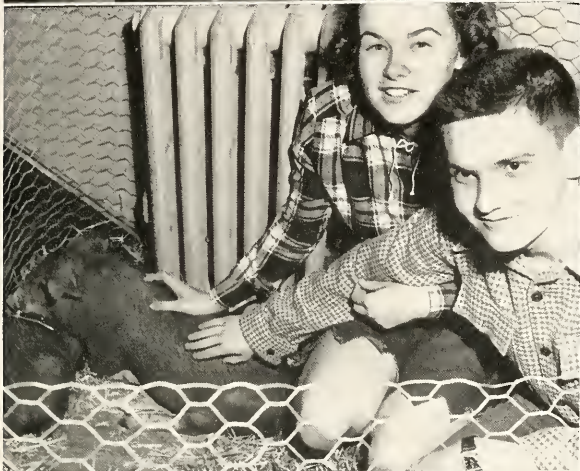

TOP, LEFT: Drystones, where we gather for boiled sawdust—with chlorine. . . . Nothing like a long, tall, cold malt. . . . Must be cleanup night at Currier. . . . Friendly bridge tourney, maybe. . . . We'd be proud of that trophy, too. . . . Gonna cut the ice? . . . Everywhere you go, there's a waiting line. . . . Fellas, you must be solving a serious problem. . . . What's with Blondie? . . . Record-breaking conference.

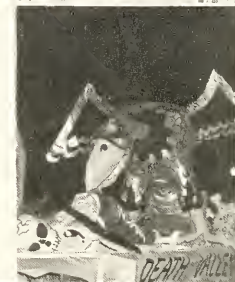

TOP, LEFT: We wouldn't play that card, either. . . . Nothing quite like a term paper. . . . Mail call brings forth smiles. . . . What HAVE you there? . . . Another enjoyable coffee hour. . . . "Man on second"—need we say more? . . . The Kappa Kappa Chi boys have a rival kitchen crew. . . . Collecting the troops for a walk to class. . . . Well-filled scrap-book, hm? . . . Little things. . . . Be patient—she's only been talking for fifteen minutes!

 cake was the dominant motif in many floats. . . . MIDDLE, LEFT: Patty Church seems to have been caught in a talkative moment. . . . The first homecoming parade was rated a success. . . . MIDDLE RIGHT: Honest, it was a phone booth! . . . Herky picks at the bones of Indiana. . . . Royally, that is.
 . . . Some day they might play for Iowa!

Each year SUI junior women outstanding in scholarship, service and leadership receive recognition from Mortar Board, national honorary organization with 82 active chapters. Purpose of the organization is to discover campus needs, evaluate them and help solve them. Since its founding in 1926, the Iowa chapter has established the vocational conference program, set up the mailbox system at the Union, and contributed a number of other services to the university. Since 1928, Mortar Board has sponsored the Mothers' Day weekend program for the entire campus. New Mortar Board members are "tapped" by the retiring members at a special spring recognition ceremony. Mortar Board joined with other campus groups in sponsoring Panacea, the all-campus carnival and the May Frolic dance. The annual "Smarty Party" this year honored all university women who received a first semester grade average of 3.0 or above. Jointly with ODK, Mortar Board presented a $75 award to Pat Lounsbury as "Hawkeye Woman of the Year."

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary fraternity for men who are outstanding in service, leadership and scholarship. Junior men who fulfill the requirements are elected to membership in the spring of each year. The fraternity was founded in 1914, and in 1947 SUI added its chapter as a continuation of the All For Iowa club. About sixty graduate members from all over the United States attended ODK's annual reunion breakfast during homecoming. The fraternity sponsored the Dad's Day dance, the alumni dad contest and other activities for alumni and football dads. During the fall members held forums on parliamentary law. ODK is the joint sponsor, with the Student Council and Mortar Board, of the all-university carnival and the Panacea show. This year the chapter received a double honor: SUI President Virgil M. Hancher was elected to the national executive board and Evan Hultman received one of four scholarships awarded annually by the national organization. In conjunction with Mortar Board, ODK presented a $75 Award to E. K. Jones as "Hawkeye Man of the Year."

Order of Artus, national honor society, is composed of students and faculty members interested in economic issues. Membership consists of representatives from many departments in the university and of outstanding students with the requisite grade average who are invited to join the group. The organization holds luncheon meetings every two weeks, at which guest speakers from many fields treat economic issues from their own standpoint and try to find common ground between their field and economics. There are eight active chapters of the Order of Artus in the country. SU Chapter Member C. Woody Thompson is national secretary-treasurer. Local officers during 1948-1949 were Wallace B. Nelson, president, and David W. Day, secretary.

ETA KAPPA NU

Junior and senior electrical engineering students in the upper one-fourth and one-third of their classes, respectively, are eligible for membership in Eta Kappa Nu, national honorary fraternity for electrical engineers. Since its founding, the fraternity has endeavored to help its members and other electrical engineering students become better fitted for their chosen profession. Each year Beta Iota awards an electrical engineering handbook to the sophomore who enters electrical engineering with the highest scholastic standing. One of the fraternity's major activities is the preparation of preliminary publicity for the Mecca week festivities. In addition to its other activities, Eta Kappa Nu offers the services of its nation-wide employment bureau to the students and graduates of electrical engineering. Undergraduates participated in seminars and discussions, and were offered financial aid to assist them in securing jobs.

SIGMA THETA TAU

Members of Sigma Theta Tau, national honorary society of nursing, are chosen on the basis of scholarship, professional interest, leadership and promise in the field of nursing. The society's purpose is to promote higher educational research in the nursing profession. The national organization offers a scholarship each year to the graduate nurse most qualified to carry on research. Six chapters of Sigma Theta Tau have been founded in colleges throughout the nation. Since its establishment on the Iowa campus in 1929, Gamma chapter has initiated 159 women. Sigma Theta Tau's activities this year included the traditional founders' day tea in October to acquaint new students in nursing with the organization. Social events centered upon the annual Christmas party at the Iowa Memorial Union and a banquet in honor of the new initiates in May.

To become members of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men must attain a grade average of 3.5, either during their first semester or as a cumulative average for the entire year. The honorary scholastic fraternity was founded at the University of Illinois in 1923. Total membership of the Iowa chapter, established in 1945, is 247. Phi Eta Sigma's purpose is to promote higher standards of learning and to encourage high scholastic attainment among freshman men. In honor of the fraternity's founder, Thomas Arkle Clark, the national organization offers one graduate scholarship every other year to outstanding members of the fraternity. The local chapter aids the advisory office's program by assisting with freshman registration each semester. In March the chapter joins with Alpha Lambda Delta to sponsor a banquet honoring new initiates.

KAPPA ALPHA PSI

Kappa Alpha Psi, men's social fraternity, was founded at the University of Indiana, Jan. 5, 1911. Gamma chapter was founded on the SUJ campus Jan. 27, 1914 and was issued a university charter in March of the same year. The fraternity encourages achievement in all fields, promotes the social, intellectual and moral welfare of its members. New members are chosen each spring by vote of the active chapter. At regular bi-monthly meetings alumni members were guest speakers. William London was chapter delegate to the national convention of the fraternity Dec. 27-30 in Nashville, Tenn. Luther H. Smith was elected president of the campus chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers this year. Social activities began with a smoker for pledges in September and included informal parties and a winter formal. A social week-end in May included baseball games, a picnic and the annual spring formal.

NU SIGMA PHI

Eta chapter of Nu Sigma Phi, national women's medical fraternity, was founded at the University of Iowa in 1919. It is a practical organization with a purpose of furnishing instruction in medical techniques and problems, and of association with other women medical students. The year's social activity for the group began with a "get-acquainted" tea. Other informal dinners or parties were given during the year at the homes of the chapter advisers or faculty members. Advisers of the fraternity are Mrs. W. R. Ingram, Mrs. Roger Porter and Mrs. M. E. Barnes. Last year's president, Evelyn Anderson, attended the national convention of the fraternity at Northwestern university last spring. There were 24 members in the fraternity this year.

On March 28, 1946, the dental students of SUI organized the Associated Students of Dentistry. It is a local association serving as a channel of communication between faculty and students, to provide a means of securing dental authorities for lectures, and to organize social functions for students and faculty. All students in the dental college are members of the association and this year there were 215 members. The organization is governed by the Dental Student Council. Three members are elected from each class representing the independent students, Delta Sigma Delta and Psi Omega fraternities. A student-faculty mixer was held in the fall to acquaint freshmen with the faculty and upper-classmen. The Appolonian Frolic and a dental school picnic in the spring were other important social events.

Delta Sigma Delta dental fraternity was founded at the University of Michigan in 1882. Gamma Gamma chapter was organized at SUI in 1914. This year's activities began with a fall freshman mixer and pledging of 21 men. A Homecoming dinner and dance, a Christmas party, a spring formal and a weekly Wives' club meeting were other social highlights. In early spring chapter delegates attended a district conclave in Kansas City. Members were proud of a completely redecorated and refurnished first floor in their chapter house.

Over three-fourths of the presidents of the American Dental Association have been members of Psi Omega, as well as the present president of the State Dental Society. The fraternity sponsors clinics by men practicing in the dental field. Psi Omega Wives' club promoted social events which included a freshman welcoming banquet, a Hallowe'en masquerade ball, a Christmas party, an annual picnic and a spring dinner-dance.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF ENGINEERING

The Associated Students of Engineering plans and promotes student engineering activities. It was founded in 1910 as the Associated Students of Applied Science, and received its present name in 1927 when the College of Applied Science became the College of Engineering. Membership in the association was automatically granted to the 507 students registered in the College of Engineering this year. The official publication of the group is "The Iowa Transit." During the holiday season the engineers sponsored their annual Christmas dance. Each year the A. S. of E. builds the homecoming monument from plans chosen in a contest open to all SUI students. It also sponsors the Mecca week celebration in which all engineering departments participate. This year's Mecca week activities included an open house in the engineering college, a smoker, the Mecca ball, the selection of a Mecca queen and the traditional search for the blarney stone.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

Mechanical engineering students at Iowa are eligible for membership in the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Objectives of the society are to promote mechanical engineering, encourage research, foster engineering education, advance standards and promote the sharing of engineering experience. Student members are eligible for higher grades of membership in the society after graduation. At weekly meetings the SU1 group heard lectures by practicing engineers who explained various phases of mechanical engineering and described recent developments in the field. A highlight of the year was the joint meeting of the SU1 student branch with the Iowa-Illinois section of the ASME. Student papers were presented at this meeting, and the Iowa-Illinois section presented a cash award to the winner.

Omicron chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, national honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, was established at Iowa in 1935 to further high ideals in engineering. Scholarship, personality and engineering aptitude form the basis of qualifications for membership. Each year the fraternity presents an engineering handbook to the junior in engineering who shows the greatest improvement in character, scholarship and participation in school activities during his sophomore year. The most important social event of the year sponsored by Pi Tau Sigma was the annual "Grease Ball," a dance for engineering students and faculty. Members played an important part in organizing and participating in the activities of Mecca week. Pledges of the fraternity operated the traditional steam whistle on the roof of the engineering building which was heard at pep rallies and after football games.

The primary purpose of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering society, is to honor outstanding scholars in the field of engineering. Membership is dependent upon character, leadership, high scholarship and junior or senior standing in the college of engineering. Twenty-one members were initiated in November, bringing total membership for the year up to 40. Besides the regular monthly business meetings, Tau Beta Pi held student-faculty breakfasts once a month throughout the year. Bob Stoker and Nelson Reeds were sent as delegates to the society's national convention Oct. 13-15 at Purdue university. Once again this year Tau Beta Pi conducted a faculty rating poll in which engineering students judged instructors, class procedures, tests and assignments in the college. In the spring the organization presented an award to the highest ranking freshman engineer. National publication of the fraternity is "The Bent," a monthly magazine.

All Iowa law students are members of the Law School Association which aims to promote the interest and welfare of the College of Law. The association sent delegates to the American Bar Association convention in St. Louis for the purpose of setting up the American Law School association as a part of the national group. The delegates helped draft and adopt a constitution and elected officers. Campus activities sponsored by the association included a fall picnic, the Barristers' Ball and lectures by prominent lawyers. The highlight of the year was Supreme Court Day, when the Law Club arguments reached a climax, and the four students who were rated highest during the year argued cases before the Supreme Court of Iowa.

DELTA THETA PHI

Delta Theta Phi, professional legal fraternity, claims 87 members on the SUJ campus. Since the founding of the Iowa chapter in 1921, approximately 600 members have participated in fraternity activities. Objectives of the organization are to promote fellowship and increase scholastic achievement. This year Al Polasky and Jerry Hallam represented Delta Theta Phi on the law student council, while Dick Jordan acted as treasurer of the senior class. The Delta Theta Phi scholastic key was awarded to seniors in the top 15 percent of their class. A Christmas party, spring formal, and picnics offered relaxation from studies.

PHI DELTA PHI

Phi Delta Phi, professional legal fraternity, was founded on the SUI campus in 1893. This year 97 men comprised the Iowa chapter of Phi Delta Phi. Faculty members spoke at luncheon meetings once each month. Iowa Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper spoke at the first of two semester initiation parties. Members held three of the five editorial positions, and contributed articles and case comments to the "Iowa Law Review." The annual Christmas party was the top social event of the year for actives, pledges and their dates.

THETA SIGMA PHI

Membership in Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity, is open to outstanding junior, senior and graduate women students in journalism. Members must maintain a B average in journalism and a C plus in all other courses. All have worked on one or more university publications. Rho chapter's 26 members held bi-monthly meetings throughout the year. The chapter sponsored publicity courses for university organizations and Iowa City women's clubs. At Christmas time members sold greeting cards. A plaque was given by the organization for the most outstanding newspaper women's page in Iowa. Relief from the cry of "deadline" was provided by the Pica ball, publication of the "Pica Sun" scandal sheet, and sponsorship of the Matrix Table banquet which was attended by 400 journalism students and faculty members. Last summer Theta Sig sent delegates to the national convention in Dallas, Texas. Attending were Millicent Righter, JoAnn Thein, Jean Strong, Mary Qualley, and Beverly Lindsay.

SIGMA DELTA CHI

Members of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity for men, are selected for their ability in journalism and their intent to remain in the field. Present membership of the SUI chapter totals around 40. Learning the techniques of good journalism is one purpose of membership. Bi-monthly meetings are conducted so that members can become acquainted with other journalists and obtain information to help toward their professional career. Meetings featured speakers chosen from active members of the profession, including publishers, photographers and managing editors. In December the Sigma Delta Chis held their annual Wayzgoose banquet, when copies of the Wayzgoose Gazette, a lampooning newspaper, were distributed. The chapter conducted a contest among Iowa weekly newspapers, with student and faculty judges choosing the three best editorial pages and the three best columns.

Kappa Epsilon, national pharmacy sorority for undergraduate women, had 11 active members this year. The women pharmacy students strive for higher scholarship, lasting friendships, and better cooperation between students and faculty. All are members of the American Pharmaceutical association. With members of the association, they sponsored a College of Pharmacy picnic last fall. A picnic for new women in pharmacy was held in September and followed by coke parties throughout the semester. Highlight of the year's social calendar was the annual Christmas party given by alumna members. Founders' day was celebrated at a banquet May 12 and the actives were entertained by the pledges at a picnic the same month. Under the direction of President Margot Kerns, Gamma chapter made plans for the national convention to be held on the Iowa campus next year.

AMERICAN PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION

All pharmacy students are members of the American Pharmaceutical association, a branch of the National Pharmaceutical organization. The aim of the association is to promote professional interest. Guest speakers and movies were featured at the regular monthly meetings. The organization's first social event was a fall picnic. With Kappa Epsilon, women's pharmaceutical fraternity, the association also sponsored the annual spring pharmacy picnic. Other social activities included informal parties and the "Prize prom." Larry Feagin headed the dance committee for the prom. Others who worked as chairmen for the dance were Bob Ohrland, Chuck Harrington, Lois Emaneul, Pat DeVilbiss, Bill Grossman, Jack McGrane and Lucretia Gehrke. Ken Rice acted as master of ceremonies. The association entered a float in the university homecoming parade.

The purpose of Delta Sigma Pi, the world's largest commerce fraternity, is to develop in its members the capabilities they will need in the field of commerce. Several members of the fraternity were session leaders for the annual SUI Careers conference and some served on the board of directors of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce. Delta Sigma Pi sponsored monthly dinners and industrial tours to acquaint its members with the business world. Epsilon chapter won the International Rose of Delta Sig beauty contest in 1948 and 1949, the first two years the contest was sponsored by the central office. Delta Sigma Pi participated in intramural sports, winning the doubles tennis tournament in the professional fraternity league. Faculty members include Dean Phillips, Professors Bloom, Burney, Daykin, Hills, McRaith, Smith, Wade, and Associates Allee, Jahn, Peck, and Strand.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, had a total of 60 members during 1949-50, and an expansion of activities highlighted the commerce majors' year. Tours were taken to the aluminum plant at Bettendorf, Iowa, and also to the Shaeffer Pen Company at Ft. Madison. The "News Bulletin," a publication sent to alumni, faculty, active members, and all chapters, was edited by Bernie Seagren. The annual alumni reunion was held in the fall and a scholastic award was presented in May to the graduating senior with the highest grade point average. Kenneth Meade, personnel director of General Motors, was sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi in an all-university address. Social activities were highlighted by the Christmas formal and spring formal.

Delta chapter of Phi Gamma Nu, women's commerce fraternity, was granted its charter May 30, 1928. It strives to further interest in civic and professional enterprises, promote high scholarship and encourage participation in campus activities. One of Phi Gamma Nu's projects is a job techniques clinic following the UWA Vocational conference each year. A dinner was held with Delta Sigma Pi Jan. 11, and Founder's day, Feb. 17, was celebrated with a dinner and initiation of new members. The group, in conjunction with Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi sponsored a dinner April 26, during the Careers conference conducted by the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce. Members of the commerce faculty spoke at the bi-monthly dinners. The organization also sponsored a Christmas party to which each member brought a guest. Those who attended the party donated gifts which were later distributed at the children's hospital.

This year was the 25th anniversary of Iota chapter of Phi Epsilon Kappa, the only national physical education fraternity for men. Membership in the organization, limited to men majoring in physical education, is based on above average scholarship and professional promise. Iota chapter maintains clubrooms in the university fieldhouse, where bi-monthly meetings are held during the regular school year and weekly meetings during the summer. The chapter sponsors the Phi Epsilon Loan fund which is available to deserving men or women majoring in physical education. It also sponsors university play nights every Tuesday and Friday night at the fieldhouse. Publications of the fraternity are "The Physical Educator," a professional magazine, "The Black and Gold," a fraternity publication, and "The Iota News Letter," publication of the local chapter.

Panhellenic council members are the presidents of the twelve national social sororities at SUI. Officers for the council are selected by a yearly rotating sequence. In October, Panhellenic gave its annual scholarship banquet, at which the scholarship cup was awarded to Delta Delta Delta, the chapter which maintained the highest grade point average during 1948-49. The Pledge Prom in September and the Panhellenic formal dance in March were two social functions sponsored by the council. Adoption and support of a 16-year-old French girl was a philanthropic activity this year. In the spring, a Panhellenic workshop offered sorority women from Iowa colleges and universities the opportunity to meet for group discussions. Each month the chapter houses entertained guests from other sororities in a new exchange dinner program. Miss Helen Reich was faculty adviser for the council.

JUNIOR PANHELLENIC

All social sorority pledges at the university are governed by the Junior Panhellenic council. Members of the council are the twelve pledge class presidents, who hold regular meetings with their advisor, Miss Helen Reich. Once each month the entire group of pledges had a meeting at which general information concerning traditions, scholarship and history of sororities and the national Panhellenic association was given. These group meetings served to acquaint women with the purpose, ideals and functions of sorority life. This year's Junior Panhellenic general project was the sponsorship of special parties for the School for Handicapped Children. Monthly parties were planned and executed by the council. The pledge groups also assisted with preparations for the Panhellenic formal.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Under the supervision of housemother Mrs. Marie Frye, the Alpha Chi had a year full of study and fun. President Shirley Harvey was Panhellenic representative on the UWA council and Pat White was elected freshman representative. Pat was also treasurer of freshman YWCA. Carol Sutton served on the organizing committee of Profile Previews and Norma Johnson acted as hostess. HAWKEYE workers were Pat Hauser, activities volume editor; Jan Lind, professionals editor; Peg Jensen, copywriter, and Mary Woodard and Gweneth Roberts, members of the business staff. Jan also re-wrote news for WSUI news broadcasts. Mary Lou Elliot sang on a weekly radio program, had a leading role in the university play, "Holiday," and appeared in "Kampus Kapers," for which Shirley Schreiber did the choreography. Francine Appleman, a member of Central Party committee, was art editor of "Code for Coeds" and the Panhellenic handbook. University chorus members were Dorothy Thomas, Arlene Yeager, Pat White, Shirley Smith and Donna Bendixen. Donna worked on the UWA orientation program as an orientation leader and Shirley Doran was an assistant leader. Pharmacy student Annabel Willis was a member of Kappa Epsilon. Nadine Nieman marched with the Highlanders while 20 girls cheered as members of Tailfeathers. WRA members Jan Killinger and Mary Woodard kept up interest in intramural sports. Informal parties and picnics, a formal Christmas dinner dance and a spring formal were high points of social activity. Sigma chapter of Alpha Chi Omega was host to alumnae and active members throughout the state during the annual State day in May.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The Alpha Delta Pi's highlighted their school year with honors and social events. Wielding the house gavel was President Joan Perry. A. D. Pi's demonstrating executive ability were Carol Chopek, president of the home economics club, and Jo Fran Kouba, who presided over Orchesis this year. Members of Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advertising fraternity, were Donna Kendall and Shirley Wood. Football observers saw the marching of Highlanders Barbara Wicks and Marlys Halverson. At athletic events more than 20 A. D. Pi's were found in the Tailfeathers section, with Joan Perry serving as secretary. Marge Irwin was active on the staff of "Code for Coeds" for new women students. A Fall Orientation leader was Pat Tucker, while Joan Phipps and Mary Robert served as assistant leaders. Musical ability was displayed by Eleanor Thompson, Joan Phipps, and Jean Hotle as university chorus members. YWCA cabinet members were Marge Irwin, Joan Phipps, who was in charge of the Y-teens, and Joan Perry, editor of the "Live Y-er" newspaper. Alice Wake worked on the "Religion in Life Week" program. Mary Robertson was a member of the Student-Faculty relations committee. Joan Fanter was chosen as an attendant to the Interfraternity pledge prom queen. Mrs. Ruby Coquillette served as housemother and chaperone at the many social events. Top events included the "Hayseed Hop", given by the fall pledge class, the winter formal, and the spring dinner dance.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Alpha Xi Delta president Carol Thurnau served as historian for Mortar Board and also found time to edit "Code for Coeds" this year. Joy Wilson was a member of YWCA cabinet, while June Marken directed the Worship Workshop and Wardine Rimel worked with the Y radio staff. Four Highlanders were Jackie Malloy, Margaret Goodnow, Joyce Sutter, and Jean Bringle. Ann Jebens served on UWA Freshman Council and Joy Wilson was a member of UWA's Foreign Student committee. HAWKEYE staff workers were Doris Peacock, Kay Cleary, Carmen Hills, and Claire Weber. Jackie Malloy was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta. Wardine Rimel served as publicity chairman for Spinsters' Spree, and Carol Thurnau was active on Panacea committee. Alpha Xi's who were in the UWA Orientation program were Joyce Rimel, Norma Wilding, June Marken, Gloria Oliphant, and Joy Wilson. Margaret Goodnow belonged to Delta Phi Alpha, while journalists Carol Thurnau and Maureen Auburn were members of Theta Sigma Phi. Ann Jebens was a member of Seals Club. Eight Alpha Xi Deltas belonged to Tailfeathers, and nine worked for WSUI. Maureen Auburn wrote for the WSUI News Bureau and served on the Daily Iowan and Frivol staffs. Jackie Mousil was a member of Phi Gamma Nu and Pat Hodgen belonged to Gamma Alpha Chi. Betty Bates was a member of Currier Judiciary board. Alpha Xi Delta social affairs included an autumn hayride party, the annual winter formal, and the "Final Fling," an informal dance sponsored by the pledges. Mrs. Ben Merritt was the chapter housemother.

CHI OMEGA

Under the leadership of Pat Pierce, Chi Omega completed another active year at SUI. Seven Chi O's were in Seals Club, with Kae Lynch as vice-president. Challie Thornton held the purse strings as treasurer of WRA, and Pat Pierce was secretary-treasurer of Orchesis. Kilted lassies Pat DeVilbiss, Frances Valentine, and Harriet Sutton marched with the Highlanders. Winifred Wakefield served as secretary of the WSUI music department while Marilyn Shackelford, Helen Pittas, M. L. Seidner, and Joan Fuller took parts on "Children's Hour" and "Fiction Parade." Ann Lawson was a member of the Union Board Publicity committee. Mary Kay Miller was a volume editor of the HAWKEYE. Other staffers were Peg Fuller, M. L. Seidner, Ann Lawson, and Marg McRoberts. Peppy additions to Tailfeathers were Dottie Koivun and Joan Fuller. Jo Stoker was a member of the cheerleading squad. Terry Haack served as secretary-treasurer of Delta Phi Alpha, and M. L. Seidner and Peg Fuller were active in Theta Sigma Phi. Frances Valentine was on the Student-Faculty board and aided freshman women as an orientation leader. Maralyn Shackelford and Pat Pierce took starring roles in "Kampus Kapers." Chi O's entertained handicapped children with a Hallowe'en party in October, and sang Christmas carols at the hospitals in December. Social activities centered upon the Christmas formal, "Candy Cane Capers," the pledge dance, and the "Chi-Otee Howl," annual hard-times party. Mrs. Clarice Waterman completed her third year as Chi O housemother.

This session somehow lacks the true informal atmosphere . . . "Please, roomie, must you study so late? (Must be a fascinating text.)"

DELTA DELTA DELTA

President Joan Tripp led her Tri Delt sisters in another year of honors and activities. Anne Smith was president of Gamma Alpha Chi and a member of the Board of Publications and Central Party Committee. Sue Gronna acted as chairman of the Panacea show and was Panhellenic representative to the Student Council. Mortar Board had Joan Tripp, B. J. Johnson, Fran Henderson, and Joelle Hansen as members. The Tri Deltas were awarded the annual Panhellenic scholarship trophy at a fall banquet. Sally Lachner was chairman of the Spinsters' Spree committee, and Joan Sywassink was in charge of the Profile Preview fashion show. B. J. Johnson served as president of UWA, and Joan Tripp was secretary of the Student Council. Lois Longley was an attendant to the Interfraternity and Dolphin queens. Adding their bit to school spirit were Tailfeathers Shirley Snodgrass, Jo Swanson, and Marge Kurtz. Mona McCormick worked for station KXIC. Marilyn Smith was a member of Zeta Phi Eta and Bev Richards was active in Forensics. Mary Ann Anderson, Joelle Hansen, and Jo Knox showed their executive ability as YWCA cabinet members while Fran Henderson was YW treasurer. Mitzie Horstman sang with the University chorus. Jo Swanson had a role in the university play, "You Can't Take It With You." Nine Tri Deltas, complete with drums and bagpipes, paraded with the Highlanders. Social activities were highlighted by the winter formal and a Valentine's Day buffet dinner and open house. Mrs. Lyda Filkins was the chapter's house mother.

DELTA GAMMA

Delta Gammas participated in varied aspects of campus life during the 1949-50 year at SUL. Nineteen girls cheered for the Iowa athletic teams as members of the Tailfeathers pep club. Bonnie Campbell, Sally Finkbine, Joan McLaren, Eleanor Glick, Rosemary Talbot, and Nancy Smith marched with the Highlanders. Reigning as this year's Dolphin queen was Mary Lou Stevenson. Shirley Skelly, Kathleen Kelly, Nancy Smith, and Sue Orsborn were members of Seals. Directing Campus Chest solicitations were chairman Mary Louise Anneberg and sorority chairman Carol Jackson. Active "Y" members were Louise Bekman, Sue Birks, and Louise Cannon. Louise Bekman took part in university Forensics and was secretary of Alpha Lambda Delta. Sue Orsborn was elected president of Alpha Lambda Delta, while Ruth Swanson was vice-president. Sue Orsborn was chairman of the Vocational Conference interview section. Betty Laurer was a member of Phi Gamma Nu and Orchestis. The Central Party committee included Diane Carson. Martha Young was publicity chairman for Profile Preview, and Martha Frye served on the hostess committee. Journalists Kay Liem, Sue Eggleston and Carolyn Gordon were members of Gamma Alpha Chi. Mary Louise Anneberg served as chairman for Information First and chairman of the Fine Arts committee of Union Board. Ruth Swanson was publicity director of Information First. Virginia Larson and Kathleen Kelly worked on the Union Board subcommittees. Chapter president this year was Shirley Summerville. Housemother Mrs. Ralph E. Overholser chaperoned the Delta Gamma's.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Members of Rho chapter of Gamma Phi Beta celebrated the 75th anniversary of the founding of their sorority this year. President Virginia Burt served as YWCA vice-president and was tapped for Mortar Board. Bev McNamee was drum major of the Highlanders which included Gamma Phi's June Schmidt, Betty Kirby, and Jan Bridges in its marching lineup. The illustrations on the 1949-50 UWA calendar were drawn by Donna Gow, who was also a member of YWCA cabinet with Linda Laird. Pat Church served as an attendant to the Interfraternity Pledge Queen and to the Dolphin Queen. Starring in university theater productions was Gwenn Davenport. Ardyth Sorenson was a member of UWA Orientation council. Nationally recognized synchronized swimmers Marilyn and Karilyn Adams participated in the Dolphin show. Lois Martin was on the Union Board and Jane Osborn and Bev Bartels served on UWA council. Jo Patten, a member of Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advertising sorority, was layout editor of the 1950 HAWKEYE, while Linda Laird worked as copy writer. The 1949 WRA intramurals cup was presented to Gamma Phi House. Tailfeathers were Margy Baker, Jan Bridges, Bobbie Campbell, Cathy Cheyne, Maribeth DeWitt, Polly Laude, Rhoda Huxsol, Joyce Palmer, Patt Smith, and Sue Susman. Housemother Mrs. Elizabeth Wherry chaperoned the Gamma Phi social season which included the "Cat's Walk," a Hallowe'en party, the Christmas formal, and a spring dinner dance.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Kappa Alpha Theta members, led by President Sue Cartwright, participated in many extra-curricular activities this year. Mary Vande Steeg was treasurer of the liberal arts senior class, on student council, Mortar Board and the "Religion in Life Week" committee. Marjorie Campbell, who also participated in Mortar Board activities, headed UWA's 1949 orientation council and was Cadet Colonel for the Military Ball. Eight Thetas were members of Highlanders. Pat Lounsbury was editor of the 1950 HAWKEYE. Flo Robinson served as president of the YWCA and Women's program director for WSUI. Casey Covert was heard on "Tea Time." "Kampus Kapers" performers included Bobby Bender, Lorna Elliott, Kayo Flodin, Sharon Kriens and Casey Covert. Ellie Leedham helped plan publicity for Information First, and Joan Beu served on the UWA freshman council. Sally Irish was on the 1950 orientation council and Merry West served as secretary of the vocational conference planning committee. Linda Leuchauer, Ursie Dawson, and Anne Gilson were members of the YWCA cabinet. Nancy Airth was chairman of WRA's publicity board and Ursie Dawson and Joyce Howe were Seals members. Presiding over the Canterbury club were Marianne Swisher and Anne Gilson. Peggie Lutz was Junior Panhellenic president and Sherle Chehak and Dottie Danielson were on Union Board sub-committees. Working on HAWKEYE staff were Teddy Allen, Joan Beu, Kayo Flodin and Merry West. House-mother "Mommie" Anderson guided the chapter for the sixteenth year.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Presided over by Jean Gordon, the Kappa's spent an active and busy year at SUU. Pat Morehead and Mary Reger were members of UWA's executive council, Pat as treasurer and Mary as the sophomore representative. Mary Ladd was chosen as a member of the Freshman UWA council. This year the Panhellenic judiciary representative was Jane Tewksbury. Marilou Cords, Doris Horslund, and Barbara McKown devoted time to Y work as cabinet members of the YWCA. Four Kappa Highlanders were Diane Irwin, Martha Hale, Sue Eversmeyer and Joan Durr. A Union Board member was Marilou Cords, with Connie Jewett on one of the subcommittees. Jean Gordon wore the white jacket of a Mortar Board member. The Seals organization included swimmers Marilyn Miller, Nancy Wilson, Gretchen Flindt, Meg Auner, Sue Funk, Connie Jewett, Peg Cornwall, and Joan Borderwick. Nancy Wilson was appointed 1950 Orientation Council chairman and Helen Hayes was a member of the Central Party committee. Tailfeathers pep organization had four Kappas on its list, while Peg Cornwall and Mary McMann were active in Forensics. Nancy Wallace served as a member of the Spinsters' Spree committee. Heading the hospitality committee for the spring Vocational Conference was Beverly Aarons. Margaret Steffen was honored by being chosen as the Interfraternity Pledge Queen. 1949's "Code for Coeds" had Pat Morehead as its editor. Mrs. H. H. Bauman was the Kappa's house mother this year.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi arrows were seen on many campus leaders at SUI this year. Margaret Foster was vice-president of UWA, and Maxine Erickson held the position of Central Judiciary chairman. The YWCA cabinet claimed Jeanette MacLeod, while Liz Thomsen served on a Union Board subcommittee. The University sing was directed by Chairman Marion O'Connor. Peace Penningroth presided over the Westminster foundation and Maxine Erickson was a member of Mortar Board. Marilyn Duckett, Melanie Snider, Nancy Hunt and Marilyn Peterson wore the plaid kilts of the Highlanders. Klaudette Diddy was a script writer for WSU. Pi Phi swimmers in Seals organization were Norinne Fenner, May Thomas, and Astrid Carlson. The University chorus included singers Maxine Erickson, Peace Penningroth and Colleen Newell. Natalie Hennessey was active in Forensics. Fall orientation leaders were Joan Frohwein, Selly Johnson, Patti Ricketts, Jean Throckmorton and Sally Webb. Pi Phi beauties included Interfraternity queen Sue Stevens, who was also attendant to the Dolphin queen; Colleen Sibert, Interfraternity attendant; Colleen Newell, Quadrangle queen; Phyllis Allen, Newman queen attendant, and Ann Wells, Interfraternity pledge queen attendant. One of the Pi Phi's projects this year was the support of a foster child. A busy social calendar included a Dad's day weekend, informal parties and cosies, and two traditional formal dances. Mrs. Harriette Evans served as housemother for Pi Beta Phi sorority this year.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Under the leadership of President Anita Schiller, Sigma Delta Tau members engaged in a busy year of activities. Helen Falk presided over the Women's Recreation association, and Arline Silverman acted as Intramurals chairman. Training chairman of the fall Orientation program was Sandra Glass. Anita Schiller directed the "Profile Preview" program, and Eunice Germansky was on the YWCA Cabinet as chairman of the Wednesday night hospital entertainment. Corresponding secretary for the Hillel Foundation was Esther Baumer. Jeanne Strauss, Leah Woolf and Millie Robinson were members of the Hillel council. HAWKEYE staff members were Charlotte Schoenfeld and Greta Grossman. Riva Castleman worked on WRA's publicity committee. Torchy Castle, Millie Robinson, Nan Markowitz, and Ellen Simons spent spare time on "Kampus Kapers." A member of the Spinster's Spree committee was Judy Fein, who was also a member of the Information First publicity committee. Rosie Katz and Florence Russman sang in the university chorus, and Renee Brody and Audrey Kirsch contributed time to CORE activities. Gamma Alpha Chi's membership list included Charlotte Schoenfeld and Greta Grossman. Sandy Andich marched and danced with the Highlanders, and Velma Gannon did radio work at WSUI. Hillel's library chairman was Renee Brody, and Charlotte Schoenfeld served as program chairman of UWA's Vocational conference. Other house activities included the partial support of a French foster child, and various social events. The housemother for Sigma Delta Tau was Mrs. Viola Heidenreich.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

The house at 815 East Burlington was home to busy members of Zeta Tau Alpha. With Marian Neff as president the Zetas took an active part in campus activities and affairs. Jean Roberts, Kappa Epsilon member, served as secretary for Iowa's chapter of the American Pharmaceutical association. Marge Day, Jane Fall, Joyce Frymire, Wilma Bloom, Claire Ingels, Doris Pletsch, Elaine Englebreck, Marion Pfeffer, and Joan Prokop belonged to Tailfeathers pep club. Marian Neff served as Freshman YWCA advisor, as well as Panhellenic activities chairman and Panhellenic representative to the International club. Jo Tripp played in the University band and Martha Jernigan sang in the chorus. Phi Beta Kappa honorary included Ann Wilson on its membership list. Doris Pletsch was a member of Phi Gamma Nu. Mary Lou Barth acted as secretary of Gamma Alpha Chi, with Fran Franson and Claire Ingels other members of this advertising fraternity. The social board of the Newman club included Jo Prokop, and Marian Neff directed affairs as social chairman of the Occupational Therapists association. A Union Board sub-committee member was Doris Pletsch, who also worked on the HAWKEYE staff. Mary Lou Hughes belonged to the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce. Highlander practice found Marianna Stevens going through drills and routines. Jan Naylor swam for the Seals organization. The student council's newly formed public relations committee had Jane Fall and Marilyn Madson as members. Claire Ingels wrote for Frivol magazine. Housemother for the Zeta Tau Alpha's was Mrs. Hazel B. Miller.

Interfraternity Council Wins National Award

The year brought national eminence to SUI's Interfraternity council, when the association was named runner-up among U. S. campuses by the National Interfraternity conference held in Washington, D. C. SUI council President Chuck Dodd and 1949 Rushing Chairman Bud Phelps attended the annual conference, which awards honors to exceptional college fraternity systems. Each year, the Iowa council subscribes $500 in support of the Foreign Student Aid program, and the group has been instrumental in establishing the policy of the sixteen social fraternities on campus to contribute generously to the Campus Chest, polio fund, and other welfare campaigns. Social climax of the season for men of fraternity row was the gala Interfraternity Prom, a January 20th event which brought the orchestra of Claude Thornhill to the Iowa Union. Reigning over the evening was Queen Sue Stevens, who was attended by Lois Longley, Colleen Newell, Rozan Wagoner, and Colleen Sibert.

As the men from the social fraternity houses instructed their pledges in SUI Greek traditions, the Interfraternity Pledge council provided additional direction for the pledges by the sponsorship of "exchange smokers." The council's yearly Pledge Prom brought the band of Bill Meardon to the Iowa Union lounge, January 7. The dance was the scene of Margaret Steffen's crowning as queen, surrounded by her attendants, Pat Church, Ann Wells, Joan Fanter, and Nancy Evans. The editors of "Mademoiselle" selected the queen from the sixteen candidates, each representing a pledge class. The pledges maintaining the semester's highest grade point average took home the traveling scholarship trophy, awarded by the council to encourage academic interest among the pledges.

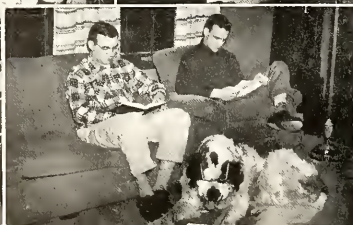

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The ATO's, under the leadership of Gordon Forsyth and with the aid of Mrs. Yetter who served competently as housemother, completed another successful year on the Iowa campus. Scholars Gordon Forsyth and Tom Olson were members of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity. Followed by their St. Bernard mascot, ATO II, the Alpha Tau athletes displayed their skill on the athletic fields. Fred Ruck won a varsity letter for his quarterbacking with the football team. Freshman numerals went to Dick Mau in basketball and track and to George Sebbins in golf. Jack R. Miller was on the varsity baseball squad and Jack I. Miller was on the junior varsity basketball squad. Both Millers, with Mal Westly, who played organ music on his program, "Starlight Serenade," worked on the WSUI staff. Westly, Bob Neel, Bill Pollitz and Luke Short played in the Iowa band. Dick Mau worked on the Daily Iowan staff. Dick Dice presided over the Student council and was a member of the Board of Publications. He also was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and was Iowa's student delegate to the National Association of Manufacturers' Industrial congress. Ed Diekmann was regional president of the National Students association, assistant producer of Kampus Kapers and a member of the university debate team. The ATO's had a varied social season with their annual Club Tau and spring formal parties.

Sounds like good boogie to us . . . He can't wait to read it later . . . That's a lot of bull fiddling.

"Club Tau", a traditional night club party, provided ATO's and their dates with a Monte Carlo atmosphere.

ATO is an impressive reminder of Yukon days, and rumor has it that the meandering mascot consumes more vittles than the rest of the chapter.

BETA THETA PI

With President Charles Ruhl proving his leadership capacity, Beta Theta Pi scored another successful year in campus activities. Prominent athletes among the Betas included Bunny Broeder and Bud Dahl on the varsity swimming team, who, with Tom Moore, were members of the Dolphin club. Bob Longley bore the black and gold banner for Iowa on the gridiron. The varsity golf team included Bob Goode and Jim Twogood. Dick Miller proved his merit on the baseball diamond. Craig Harper pounded the cinder pathway as a member of the track team. Athletic achievements were the lightweight basketball tournament championship and top place in the intramural swimming meet. Active in honorary fraternities were Don Chadima and Bob Keefe in Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising, and Tom Moore, Chuck Ruhl and George Beno in Delta Sigma Pi, commerce. Working in publications on the Daily Iowan staff were Don Chadima and Bob Keefe. Dean Fritchen was the HAWKEYE sales manager. Betas Fritchen and Jim Bawden served on Union board subcommittees. With the assistance of their housemother, Mrs. Thomas Hammill, the social activities for the year included the annual Barn party, the Bowery party, the Christmas formal and the Miami Triad.

DELTA CHI

The Delta Chi's opened their 38th year on the Iowa campus by winning the Interfraternity touch football championship. Individual Delta Chis were prominent on campus, too. E. K. Jones was president of Tailfeathers, secretary of the Interfraternity council, and a member of the central party committee. Tom Dorsey was production assistant for HAWKEYE and resolutions chairman for the Young Democrats. Irvin Cirks was business manager of "Transit" and a member of Theta Tau, national engineering fraternity. Rome Schaffner was on Union board, and Robert Hill, Don Strub, Mickey Thomas, Harry Dahl and Al Bruce were Iowa Mountaineers. Roy Barron, member of the SUI symphony, and Al Frost, who played with the marching and concert bands, represented the chapter in the music field. Other men in campus activities were Dick Duncan and John Hogeland, Union board sub-committees; Dale Holroyd, secretary of the Interfraternity pledge council, and Willis Otto, who appeared in several university theater productions. Mrs. Frank Silver chaperoned the social program of the year which included the "'49er" party, two formals and numerous informal parties.

Looks like it was a delightful evening . . . But what did you bring back besides empty shells? . . . They enjoyed the Christmas formal dance, too.

Okay, E. K., we see it's strictly homogenized . . . Kenton versus Gillespie, maybe?

DELTA TAU DELTA

Entering their 70th year at SU1, the Delts were led by President Marshall Berg and chaperoned by their housemother, Mrs. James Folley. On the grid-iron Bob Geigel captained two Iowa games and during the winter was a member of the wrestling team. Frank Barile, a Nile Kinnick scholarship winner, and John Tinley won their freshman football numerals. Jay Storey and Orliff Clark walked the links for the Iowa team, while Ted Morrison was on the swimming team. In extra-curricular activities the Delts held many prominent positions. Dick Ball, Fred Leonard and Bob Loots were on the Frivol staff, Dick Colville worked on HAWKEYE and Al Devine was alumni editor of the Iowa Transit. The strains of "On Iowa" were often heard as Jim Bullard, Bob Sweet and Bob Loots practiced for the marching band. Loots, Tom Frantz, and Orliff Clark were in YMCA activities. Don Rowe was vice-president of the Interfraternity Pledge Council while Dick Colville was treasurer of the Central Party Committee. Kenny Alsager and Bob Daasch were members of Delta Sigma Pi, commerce fraternity. Dick Ball and Carl Scheld were members of the Forensics Association. Topping off a successful social season were the Christmas and spring formals. A little on the gayer side, as Iowa coeds will agree, were the annual "Walter Mitty" and pajama parties.

The Delts have their own bop crew, good for many a session . . . What's the book he's reading so avidly?

It's a long walk home, we have a flat tire, and the women have 12:30 hours . . . There's a crowd for studying.

BOTTOM ROW: McClow, Britton, Storey, Mrs. H. Foley, Berg, Alsager, Suiter.

The food was excellent, the music tops, and all the Delts and their dates rated the Christmas formal dance "tops".

DELTA UPSILON

Delta Upsilon was well represented in student government activities on the Iowa campus this year. Gaige Walters and John Hovland held positions on the Student council; Don Guthrie and Don Edwards, who directed the arrangements for the all-university Homecoming party last autumn, were on the Union board; Bob Dickinson was on the Central Party committee, and Guthrie was a member of the Student Board of Publications. Officers from D. U. in student groups included Ralph Woodard, president of the "I" club and vice-president of the senior class of liberal arts, and Troy Anderson, president of the Interfraternity pledge council. Woodard was also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership fraternity. In the communications field were Don Guthrie, heard regularly over WSUI, and Larry Sjulin, copywriter for HAWKEYE. Sjulin also served on the student-faculty mixer committee. DU's in Iowa athletics were Glenn Drahm, Hubert Johnston and Ralph Woodard, football; Johnston and Don Larsen, basketball; Drahm, Bob Stewart and Don Edwards, baseball, and Jack Davis, captain, Virgil Troyer and John Wana-maker, track. The DU's held their fourth annual Hobo convention under the reign of King George Marks. Other social events were the winter and spring formals. Chaperone of house activities was Mrs. Geraldine Ballard, who completed her first year as housemother for the Iowa chapter.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Dels, guided by President Charles Hanson and Miss Naomi Houlst, housemother, again proved themselves among the leaders of the campus. They started the year by bringing home a first place trophy in the Interfraternity homecoming parade, and then won second place in touch football. Sports claimed many Phi Dels. John Towner and Austin Turner won their major "I" 's in football. Don Hays and Gene Gettys wore the black and gold in basketball and Bob Gordon and Jim Scroggs were on the freshman team. Larry Larimore and Wally Nicholson were on the swimming team and, with Pete Hedlin and Dan Roper, were members of the Dolphins organization. Dick Tupper, Jim Mitchell and Claire Jennet were on the varsity track team. Varsity tennis team members included Jack Fletcher and Bill Ball. Fletcher was also a member of the HAWKEYE staff. Paul and Jim Conrad were cartoonists for the Daily Iowan. Don Hays was on the Union board and was also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa. Bob Wolford served on a Union board committee. Chuck Hanson was again active in Kampus Kapers and a member of Pi Tau Sigma, engineering fraternity. John McTavish was a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, commerce honorary. Bob Pearce participated in the advertising activities of Alpha Delta Sigma. Phi Dels maintained social prominence with such events as the Christmas and spring formals, the annual Buckaroo party and the Miami Triad.

Phi Dels worked hard to win a trophy for their homecoming float . . . "After hours" jam sessions proved popular with everyone.

Open house brought many guests to the castle painted blue and white . . . The "Buckaroo" party was a darn good western attraction.

PHI EPSILON PI

Alpha Beta chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi, under the leadership of Irving Sherman, maintained their high academic standards by winning the national Phi Ep scholarship trophy. Harlan Hockenburg was named the outstanding national Phi Ep undergraduate. With the assistance of Housemother Mrs. Sonia Sands, the chapter played host to the Big Ten Phi Ep conclave. Don Levy, Sam Silberman and Paul Wolf were Dolphin club members. While Jerry Faske and Lou Ginsberg were on the gridiron for the football team, cheerleader Dick Turchen was cheerleading from the sidelines and Sherwin Brotman, Julian Guterman, Ted Seldin and Jules Harlow were entertaining the crowd as members of the SUI band. Jack Blankenfield was a member of the orchestra. Phi Eps active in other campus functions included Wilber Friedman, a member of the Central Party committee; Sam Silberman, in the Order of Artus, honorary economics society, and Norm Matulef, a member of a Union board subcommittee. Matulef also served as vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service fraternity, while Dick Levitt was secretary. Howard Olansky, Sid Abraham and Norm Matulef were on the Daily Iowan staff. Zan Faigen, Keith Kartman and Jules Harlow were staffers at WSUI. Many Phi Eps were active in Tailfeathers, Hillel foundation and freshman athletics. Numerous informal parties were highlighted this year by the pledge prom, the "Anything Goes" party and the spring formal dance.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

The Phi Gams began the year by winning first prize for their float in the Homecoming parade. Chapter President Chuck Dodd, serving as Interfraternity council president, was the university's delegate to the National Interfraternity council convention, and was also a member of Alpha Delta Sigma advertising fraternity. Phi Gams in publications were Herb Williams, advertising sales manager of the Daily Iowan; John Holway, sports writer for the Daily Iowan, and Jim Urice and Jack Zack on the sales staff of Frivol. The Fijis were represented in campus honoraries by four studious men, Bob Carpenter, Phi Beta Kappa, and John Dinzole, John Miller and Allen Anneberg, who were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma. Men participating in Iowa athletics were Bill Green, Bob Hoff and Ron Peterson in football; Bob Schulz and Bill Bauer in basketball; John Dinzole and Jack Carpenter in baseball, and Russ and John Merkel in track. Members of the Dolphin club included Bowen Stassforth, who served as vice-president and was a member of the Hawkeye swimming team, Pen Mower, Dick Bloomburg and Herman Lehman. Highlights of the social season were the Apache party, the winter formal and the annual Fiji Grass Skirt party. Mrs. T. N. Harker was the chapter housemother.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

Members of the Alpha Phi chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma celebrated their centennial year under the leadership of President Richard Fishbaugh and with the guidance of their housemother, Mrs. Altha Pfeiffer. For the second consecutive year the Phi Kaps received the Interfraternity scholarship cup for outstanding academic achievement. At the Interfraternity scholarship banquet, Phi Kap Robert Stoker was named the most outstanding Greek of the year. Stoker was also president of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering fraternity, and Wayne Johnston and Ray Tingleff were recording secretary and treasurer respectively of that group. On the freshman football team Russell Zimmerman and Paul Klink held promising positions and Jim Eickleberg was on the freshman wrestling squad. William Snook was a member of the "I" club and active in varsity track and cross-country competition. Dick Martin was the designer of the Homecoming monument and Harlan Bainter played in the university band.

PHI KAPPA PSI

The Phi Psi's were led through the year's activities by Presidents Bill Swanson and George Alexander. The pledges, assisted by scholarship chairman Dick McKay, won the interfraternity scholarship trophy for the fourth successive year. John Fenton and John Christian were initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity. Iowa Alpha men were active in many athletic events; on the gridiron Dick Laster, Jerry Long, Jim McKinstry, Bill Reichardt, and Jim Sangster wore the black and gold; All-American Bob Busch and John Boyd were on the swimming team and were Dolphins; Tom Kincaid was on the frosh squad, and Bob Berry and Jim Sangster were on the baseball team. Charles Kromer and Bob Ackley held positions on the varsity golf team. Phi Psi's active in extra-curricular campus activities included John Howes, member of the Board of Directors of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, Clark Phillips in the University chorus and on the executive committee for Religion in Life Week, and Bill Metz in Eta Kappa Nu, honorary engineering fraternity. Max Sowers was elected to the Student Board of Publications and Dick Gerdes was on the Frivol staff. The headliners of the social season were the Christmas and spring formals and Jefferson Duo. Mrs. Marie Grant was the chapter housemother.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

With an emphasis on scholastic achievement, Gamma Nu chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha completed an active year on campus. Led by president Wrex Vandecar, PiKA was represented in the Tailfeathers pep club and in the Y.M. C.A. There were eight men among the ranks of the Associated Students of Engineering and four with the American Pharmaceutical association. John Beers, Jerry Shipton and Don Sandhorst played in the university symphony orchestra and Bill Redman was in the university band. Among those elected to honorary fraternities were Don Wagner, Howard McManus and Otto Podlaha in Pi Tau Sigma, while Theta Tau men included Podlaha, Wagner and Bob Wood. Richard Harold took part in Alpha Kappa Psi activities and David Smith was in Delta Sigma Pi. Robert Hogg was a member of Sigma Xi and held the president's office in the mathematics club. Don Wagner was vice-president of the senior engineering class. On publication staffs were Robert Bawden of the Daily Iowan, James Donahey and William Levy on HAWKEYE and Bob Van Dyke, Don Wagner, and Otto Podlaha on the Iowa Transit. In sports Theodore Nelson and Jim Johnson were on the freshman football team, while Eugene Oathout and William Levy were on the basketball squad. Chaperoned by their housemother, Mrs. C. O. Cuddy, the social season was highlighted by the traditional "Gold Nugget" and winter formal parties.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

This year again found men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon prominent on the SUI campus, with SAE's Bob McKenzie and Jack Dittmer playing their last season as ends on the Hawkeye grid team. Dittmer also won his sixth and seventh major letters in basketball and baseball, respectively. Bob Primrose and Dittmer made up the "keystone combination" for the baseball squad, while Rusty Garst was one of the outstanding swimmers on the Iowa team. Also partial to the pool were Dolphins Jim Thorson, Tom Rigler and Tom Moore. Mike Trueblood, Union board representative, was a member of the tennis team and Bucky Harris and Gene Slack devoted their efforts to the basketball court. The SAE's also won the 1949 participation trophy in intramurals after carrying home first place honors in six sports. In other campus activities, SAE claimed Chuck Carroll, editor of the Daily Iowan, as well as Jim Nunn, chapter president and vice-president of the Interfraternity council. Fred Greusel was a member of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, and serving on the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce were Pat Bacon, Tom Brooke and Ed Carty. Living at the house this year was Fred Gleixner, an exchange student from Hamburg, Germany, who was sponsored by the SUI chapter of SAE. Social events included the spring and winter formals, the "Opus No. 2" costume party and a pledge party. Mrs. H. F. Scholes served as chapter housemother.

SIGMA CHI

Under the guidance of Mrs. Rhea Dahl, housemother, and led by President Jack Kampmeyer, Sigma Chi ended another successful year at Iowa. Sigma Chi's wearing the black and gold in sports were George Vrame and Don Winslow in football, Dick Miller in golf, Jim Wiley in track, and Jack Hargrove in basketball. Sigma Chi men-about-campus include three presidents of their respective senior classes: Tom Kauffman in engineering, Don Winslow in pharmacy, and Jim McKenzie in liberal arts. McKenzie also presided in the dual role as president of the Central Party committee and as a member of the Union Board, as was Bill Tandy who served as president of that organization. Dave McClellan and Ed McLaughlin worked on Union board subcommittees. Earl Cathcart acted as vice-president of both the senior commerce class and the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce. Dick Puetz and staff cartoonist Jack Bender were on the Iowan and Mort Baker and Karl Schultz on HAWKEYE. Dick Peterson participated in Iowa debates and was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa. Thornton Klos was active in the university theater productions, and Clyde Griffen was editor of the Canterbury Club news paper. During the Sigma Chi Derby festivities the sorority houses competed for a much-sought-after trophy. The "Basin Street Bounce," a Christmas formal, and "A Night in Bagdad" were part of Sigma Chi's 1949-50 social schedule.

SIGMA NU

The Sigma Nu's, under the leadership of Bob Martin and chaperoned by Mrs. Arthur Guernsey, housemother, started the year by winning a first place trophy in the Homecoming float contest and capturing the all-university golf championships. The house combo, Ding Daisley, Bruce Marsh, and Jim Stefens, kept everyone in tune with midnight jam sessions. During the fall, the Sigma Nu's were represented by Jim Brodston, Jack Hess and Dick Donahue in freshman football. Bruce Marsh, Buddy Trom and Bob Neals were members of the varsity baseball team. Dick Doran and Jack Hess were on the freshman team. Bill Wulff, Jack Stewart and Korky Kelly played golf for the varsity squad. Kelly also was on the rifle team. All-American Dick Maine again showed his prowess in the swimming pool. Dick Hornaday and Charles Hicklin served as art directors for the Dolphin show. Bob Martin was on the executive committee of the Interfraternity council. In publications, Bud Sims worked on the Daily Iowan advertising staff and Tom Clithero was advertising manager of Frivol. Clithero, Sims, Bob Cary and John Hewitt were members of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity. The year's outstanding social functions were the Christmas formal, the "Hotel Party" and the spring "Lilac Party."

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Under the leadership of President Dick Pahre and chaperoned by their new housemother, Mrs. Ruie Dickinson, the Sig Eps maintained a high scholastic standard during the year. In the activities segment of campus life, Dan Miller served as editor of the HAWKEYE beauty section and John Hess was a staff photographer. Bill George was publications-inclined in his capacity as general manager of The Iowa Transit, engineering magazine. He was also chairman for the annual homecoming monument project sponsored by the engineers. Past president Bud Phelps served as the Interfraternity delegate to the National Interfraternity council. The Sig Eps were well represented in athletics. On the gridiron Jim Shoaf, Bud Kaisershot, Larry Willimack and Frank Heldt won major letters. Richard Walker was on the varsity baseball squad, Miles Benda held a post on the wrestling team, and Jack Scanlon and Bob Ojemann were on the basketball squad. Dick LaBehn was a swimmer for SUI, and with Don Myron was a member of Dolphins. Art Doran served on a Union Board sub-committee. Social activities this year included the novel "Pajama Party," the Christmas formal, and informal exchanges with sororities.

THETA XI

The Xi Chapter of Theta Xi spent another busy season among the fraternities of Riverside Drive. Walt McMahon divided his year among Omicron Delta Kappa, Delta Sigma Pi, work on the Panacea committee, and the presidency of the YMCA. Bob Ford served as secretary of the "Y" and the Interfraternity Pledge Council elected Dick Getman treasurer. Other commerce men in the Delta Sigma Pi honorary were Jack Sondergard and Arnett Bening. Theta Xis active in athletics were Jerry Bosshart on the golf links, Tom Sangster, a winner of four track letters and an "I" Club member, and Ron Miller, who worked out with the freshman football squad. Chairman of the Military ball was Jim Tolson, a company commander in advanced ROTC and a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Dan Krumm, president of the fraternity, joined John Morgan to serve on the YMCA's Child Guidance committee. Social Chairman Bob Hammes announced plans for the winter formal, held at the Jefferson hotel, and a spring formal. In addition, fraternity row was invaded by women, as dates arrived for the Theta Xi house party and the men found shelter elsewhere for the night. The February calendar featured a Russian party, and the Interfraternity Queen candidates were honored with a dinner prior to the Interfraternity dance. Mrs. Robert F. Glen again served as housemother for the fraternity.

CURRIER HALL

Mail time brings the Currier girls to the mailboxes in north and south lobbies . . . and snack time brings them to the soda bar on main floor.

The 850 girls in Currier, the annex, cottages and Hutchinson house, plus residents from McChesney, Howard and Chesley house, were active in every phase of dorm life. Unit chairmen from each of the 21 Currier units, board chairmen, and the executive officers were members of the Currier council. Solving disciplinary problems and enforcing dormitory rules this year were Min Beatty, judiciary chairman, and her committee. Dotty Klawans' activities board kept dorm dwellers informed of campus activities, planned the homecoming float, and conducted the spring elections. A special project for the year was the adoption of a war orphan. The social board, led by Ruth Celke, saw that Currier women enjoyed social activities, along with newly decorated lounges and recreation room. A homecoming coffee hour; "Fantasy in Frost," the Christmas dance; a surprise Halloween party and a mass Christmas party were big events on the Currier social calendar.

Two of the Currierites practice a skit for presentation at an after-hours dorm gathering . . . The library has late magazines, good novels and lots of spare-time readers.

After the first semester finals were over, the Currier social program continued with the Sweetheart dance; the spring carnival dance at Iowa Union; a recognition breakfast; intramurals dinner; Sunday afternoon "Mints and Music," and informal "cosies." Mixers and exchanges with Westlawn, Hillcrest, Law Commons and the Quadrangle completed a busy social schedule. Verna Mae Wingate, chairman of the publicity board, was responsible for signs and posters publicizing all dorm events. "Dorm-story," Currier's own "scandal sheet," was ably edited by Mary Qualley. Donna Belle Jones and Etta Mueller were members of Mortar Board, while Mary Qualley represented Currier on the Student Council. Min Beatty and Gladys Nelson served on the UWA central judiciary board, while Hilda Greenberg was a member of the UWA freshman orientation council and headed the big-little sister program at Currier. Elaine Jensen wrote minutes as secretary of Currier and of UWA. Ellen Sideman was chairman of the UWA foreign students committee and Marion Rees directed vocational conference. Julie Jensen was head of the YWCA hospital board and Carol Shuttleworth directed the energetic Live Y'ers. Currier women who held posts on the WRA executive board were Lily Lou Barton, Laura Shields, Joan Blair, Ida Egli, Beth Marxmiller, Ján St. Clair, Betty Jo Estes, Gertrude Clark, Marilyn Jensen, Marian Thornton and Geraldine Greenlee. Jane Buckley and Jean Meggers helped build SUI spirit at athletic events, serving as cheerleaders.

Eastlawn, a non-boarding dormitory for graduate students and women over 22 years of age, provided a home for 71 grads and 14 undergraduate women. The cosmopolitan group included Iowans, non-resident students, and women from foreign countries. Despite an intellectual "study hard" atmosphere, Eastlawn residents found time for extra curricular activities. On the social agenda were monthly Sunday morning breakfasts; mixers with graduate men from Quadrangle and Hillcrest; a Christmas party; exchange bridge parties with the Quadrangle, and a spring dinner party. Social chairman was Ann Clark. With Joan Rich as intramurals chairman, Eastlawn women participated in the WRA intramurals events. During the Christmas season, women in the dormitory contributed to the care of four needy Iowa City families in cooperation with the YWCA. Betty Hood served as Eastlawn's representative to the Student Council.

WESTLAWN

Westlawn Dormitory's 17 council members directed the activities of the 265 student nurses this year. When not busy at the hospital, women participated in the extensive social program planned by the social board and chairman, Kathy Proudfit. Events of the year included a freshman tea, fireside sing, big sister parties, barn dance, a Homecoming open house, Dads' day coffee hour, "Caps Caprice" at the Union preceded by a pre-Caprice social hour at the dorm, and a Westlawn and Hillcrest chorus party after caroling at the hospitals. These were followed by a skating party and chili supper, a reception for freshmen after they received their caps, an April Fools party, Mother's Day tea, a spring formal, senior banquet, mixers, and exchange dinners. Judy Hemmye, activities chairman, saw that Westlawn was represented in intramurals and the Homecoming parade. Jane Neibert was judiciary board president and a member of central judiciary committee together with Marge Lowry. Janet Albaugh was an orientation leader and Felicia Hope was a member of Union board. Georgia Parris served on the student-faculty committee and Jane Taber worked on Vocational Conference. Jane Neibert was president of the 5th District of Student Nurses of Iowa. Joy Lawrence was Westlawn's voice in Student Council.

Girls living in Dean house, Fairchild house, and Russell house form the Cooperative Dormitory association. They manage the cooking and cleaning for their dormitories and are able to cut living expenses. The annual fall "Turkey Trot" and individual house parties featured by the organization were highlights of a successful social season. At the spring dinner dance, keys were presented to the two members who contributed the most to the association and their individual houses during the year. The association presented a scholarship trophy to the house with the best grade point average. B. J. Rehmke and Yvette Wright were elected to Mortar Board. Governing the co-ops were council members Dorothy Rostovac, B. J. Rehmke and Sally Voss. Margaret Habbinga represented the association on the UWA central judiciary board and Sally Voss was student council representative.

QUADRANGLE

Scholastic and social phases of the Quadrangle's 1949-50 season combined to make an eventful calendar for 1100 residents of the campus' largest dormitory and its adjacent cottages. Disciplinary and judicial problems were the responsibility of the 40-man council, composed of elected representatives and proctors appointed by the university. Among the activities on the Quad agenda were a series of tea dances and the intramural sports program. Men were also busy with chorus rehearsals or informal bridge games in the Quadrangle's lounge. Open house celebrations during Homecoming and other SUI holidays attracted many visitors. Miss Marian Rees, of Currier hall, reigned as the first Quad Queen and was crowned by the dormitory's president, Robert Yackshaw, at the Autumn Leaves dance. Scholastic and service awards were presented to Quad residents for their achievements in academic and extra-curricular fields.

At the Christmas dance in the Quad lounge, students and administrators of the Quadrangle gathered for an evening of entertainment provided by their own musicians. Tex Beneke's orchestra was booked to play for campus dormitory men and their dates at the Tri-Dorm dance. Luther Smith was chairman of the Campus Chest drive. Jack Pederson directed the Kampus Kapers musical, "The Happy Atom," and John Craven was a member of the cast. Sports Director Bill Wolf and Music Director Warner Martin were on the WSUI staff. Harlan Bjork was president of the Society of American Military Engineers. Krish Khandelwal, John Hohmann, Gerald Leucke, and William E. Smull were presidents of the International club, Rho Chi, Eta Kappa Nu and Pi Tau Sigma, respectively, and Gordon Toland presided over the Billy Mitchell Squadron. Life at the Quad was preserved on film with a student-photographed, produced and financed motion picture, "Loose Ends," incorporating the talents of university women and portraying the social and scholastic behavior of the typical resident, "Joe Quad." Director of this project was Hal Davidson, who was aided by Ross Williams.

South Quadrangle, the newest men's dormitory, began the year by winning first place in the dormitory division for their homecoming parade float. Coffee hours held in the lounge for families and friends were a feature of the social season. Exchange dances, hayrides and the spring Tri-Dorm dance, sponsored in cooperation with Quadrangle and Hillcrest, also highlighted the year's social program. Head proctors Gene Glenn and Ted Burgdorf supervised the South Quad council. Larry Walker was treasurer of Student Council. The annual extra-curricular and scholastic awards were presented at a banquet in the River room of the Iowa Union. Mrs. Verne Spencer again served as manager of the dormitory.

HILLCREST

For men who called Hillcrest their college home, it was an eventful, varied year. Dormitory life was enhanced by the social agenda planned by Bob Randolph, Tom Moffit, and Les Fields. The season got under way with the Autumn Nocturne dance, held at the Iowa Union, which brought the music of Larry Barrett to Hillcresters and their dates. The annual Hillcrest party, a barbeque, and "Club 52," which featured the Leo Cortimiglia Quintet, set the pace for the Tri-Dorm Dance. These events were supplemented by other social diversions such as section-sponsored hayrides and exchange dinners with several women's housing units. Much in demand all during the year was the popular Hillcrest chorus, directed by Gene Thomson. Dormitory residents recalled that the choristers won the '49 University Sing, and plans were made to promote a Christmas caroling tour. "The Crest," official publication of the dorm, was directed by an editorial board headed by Bill Habermann and Jack Dobbs. Academic interest was promoted through student-faculty dinners, lectures by SUI professors, and with the showing of various motion pictures.

A solid combo played for the Hillcrest "Club 52" dance in January.

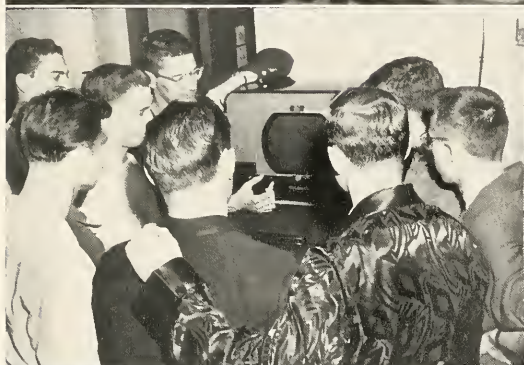

Work was begun on the new Hillcrest wing of rooms, scheduled to be available to students by next fall. At the climax of the current session, recognition awards were presented to Hillcrest men prominent in scholastic achievement and active in university organizations. Among the ranks of promising Hillcresters were such men as Rod Gelatt, managing editor of the WSUI news bureau and president of the senior Associated Students of Journalism. Les Fields participated in the varsity basketball and golf teams, and George Dixon was voted the Most Eligible Bachelor on Campus. Serving as presidents of their respective organizations were Robert Osterhaus and Donald P. Hayes, of the sophomore and senior pharmacy classes. Dick Turney was elected head of the Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary, and Carl Foster presided over the sophomore class in journalism. Phillip Bigelow divided his time between his duties as president of the Lutheran Student association and as a member of the university band. Hillcrest residents turned in their contributions to the Campus Chest drive, directed at the dorm by Bob Wells. Curt Johnson drew pictures for Frivol, while Don Steffen shot pictures for that magazine and for HAWKEYE. Student Councilman Burton W. Faldet was chairman of the committee established by that group to inaugurate faculty grading on campus. Dick Finn, WSUI news editor, was one of nearly a dozen Hillcrest men who contributed their talents to radio. Jack Hartle, Eugene Thomson, Maurice Kirlin, and Arlyn Moeller trod the boards of the Macbride stage for the Kampus Kapers show.

LOYOLA HOUSE

The residents of Loyola House, Catholic men's housing unit, took part in many campus activities during the past year. Tom Ryan was president of the Newman club and Elmer Hentges was treasurer. John Oostendorp was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Delta Sigma Rho. James F. Bradley captured the university tennis trophy and also served on the editorial board of the "Iowa Law Review." Herman Mathias, member of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, was also elected to Beta Gamma Sigma, commerce honorary. Loyola House won the town league touch football tournament and swimming competition. Loyola resident Corey Wright was on the varsity baseball squad and was assistant backfield coach at University high. Jack Corcoran was a member of the freshman wrestling crew and Leonard Yanushka was among the varsity football ranks. Loyola also sponsored a social program consisting of a Christmas charity ball, scavenger hunt, spring formal and the annual "Frontier Frolic."

The clatter of typewriters and teletype machines typifies the operations of the Daily Iowan newsroom as student editors, reporters, photographers, editorial writers and advertising copywriters make their contributions to the next day's issue. One of the distinctions of the Iowan is that these students are producing a daily newspaper without faculty supervision or censorship. The Iowan is also distinguished from other college newspapers in having the facilities of Associated Press, United Press and Associated Press Wirephoto. Rapid turnover gives all journalism students a chance to work on the Iowan and many of them a chance for editorial positions. All look forward to careers like those of former staff members George Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gould, editors of the Ladies' Home Journal, and Frank Eyerly and Ken McDonald, managing and executive editors respectively of the Des Moines Register and Tribune. Last year the Iowan, competing with 300 other college papers, received the grand award of the National Advertising service in the fields of management, research and advertising.

As part of her daily "beat", the news writer checks in at the city clerk's office to gather information on building permits . . . then to a department in the University to find a possible feature story . . . back at the newsroom, where telephones jangle, typewriters clash, and editors nudge reporters with verbal reminders of deadlines.

Her stories written, the reporter hands them in to Jim Robinson, assistant city editor . . . the copy finds its way to the "rim", where copyreaders check for errors, write headlines, and edit wire copy from 4:30 in the afternoon until 11:30 at night . . . "slot man" Bill Seward gives the story a final check and sends it over to the IOWAN shop.

Meanwhile, the photographer has developed and printed the negatives shot earlier and an engraving crew member finishes the final cut . . . a linotype operator sets the copy and the stories are ready to take their places in the pages of "Iowa City's favorite morning newspaper" . . .

THE 1950 HAWKEYE

Located in a cozy tin hut which is nestled among other tin huts on the Iowa campus is the HAWKEYE office, where 75 business and editorial staffers assembled on occasion to work on an extra-curricular project. More than 4,000 pictures and innumerable sheafs of manuscript copy were wedged into a six-month production period. Some of the "old regulars" assembled for soirees on St. Patrick's day and again on "Bunny Day"—before Easter vacation. By the year's end, the HAWKEYE office was a regular hang-out with Japanese lanterns, an ivy plant dubbed "Junior" and the cluttered remains of what had been a mountain of editorial material.

FRIVOL

FRIVOL is SUI's monthly magazine devoted to humor, creative writing, cartoons and the ever-present college jokes. More than 51 persons contributed their editorial efforts this year to one of the few college magazines which relies chiefly on original material for its contents. Many FRIVOL cartoons were reprinted in other college magazines, and a takeoff on a national magazine's "highbrow-middlebrow-lowbrow" feature was the inspiration for two other college magazines after FRIVOL's original presentation. A series of sports profiles appeared during the year, and staff members interview such famous persons as Artie Shaw, King Cole, Woody Herman, Jimmy Dorsey, Dizzy Gillespie, Ogden Nash, Harlan Miller and President Virgil Hancher. Editor Nick Thimmesch pointed out that "the March issue was a flopperoo" but made up for that one lag with issues on cartoon parodies and the roaring twenties.

Dave Stashower, chief announcer, broadcasts the "Classmates Overseas" program for the "Listen and Learn" series.

WSUI and KSUI, the University of Iowa radio stations, broadcast 135 hours weekly from six studios in the engineering building. They serve an audience of three million people in the five-state listening area. WSUI, now in its 31st year, is the oldest educational station west of the Mississippi. It is served by both the AP and UP news services and operates with a power of 5,000 watts. KSUI, the FM station, operates on a frequency of 91.7 megacycles with a radiated power of 16,500 watts. The staff, supervised by Station Director Carl Menzer, is composed of 150 students training for work in commercial radio. The station features complete sports coverage, classical and popular music, drama, children's and women's hours and regular world news reports.

Milo Hamilton, emcee of "Rhythm Rambles", selects discs for the noon-hour show, a favorite with SUI students.

Don Robertson, announcer for "Musical Chats", and Vern Reynolds, assistant program director, survey the controls.

Ken Reyhons, news staffer, and Jack Dooley, first semester news editor, prepare copy for their daily newscasts.

The Alpha chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensics society, is dedicated to encouraging effective public speaking in the university and in Iowa high schools. This year the group sponsored Iowa's 22nd international debate in November, with a British team from Oxford university. Participants from SUI were William Shuttleworth and Evan Hultman. The subject of the debate was, "Resolved: That public ownership is in the best interest of a democratic society." Membership is restricted to juniors and seniors who have been outstanding participants in intercollegiate forensics. Members elected this year were Murray Kniffen, Charles Thodt, Darrell Feay, Virginia Dickison, Betty Jean Peterson, Patricia Sloan, Alysia Larson, Edward Diekmann, Gil Pearlman, Reid Digges and Natalie Hennessy.

FINE ARTS

ORCHESTRA

Prof. P. G. Clapp directed the University symphony orchestra in another series of concerts again this year. At Christmas, the orchestra in conjunction with the University chorus, directed by Prof. Herald I. Stark, presented Handel's "The Messiah." An all-university group, the orchestra this year included more than a hundred musicians from the faculty, the music department and other university departments. Prof. William Gower served as assistant conductor again this year.

DR. P. G. CLAPP
Director

Early in the year, musicians are auditioned and assigned to either the fall concert band or the marching band. At the end of the football season, members are re-assigned to the concert or varsity bands. The varsity band performs at all university basketball games played in Iowa City. This organization is directed by "Doc" Oehlsen and contributed to the total of nearly 50 public performances given by the various bands from SUI's music department. Countless special university ceremonies and celebrations, scheduled concerts, and athletic events combine to make a full year's schedule for the students and directors. The marching band included 110 men, and numerous attractive and novel formations were introduced to Hawkeye spectators and fans. Special tribute was paid the college of engineering by a special marching band pattern on field at half-time during the Northwestern game. The marching unit traveled to Minneapolis to appear at the Iowa-Minnesota game.

CONCERT BAND

During its current season the concert band of the university's instrumental music department boasted 85 members. With Director Charles B. Richter and Assistant Director Arnold Oehlsen, the abilities of the musicians were evidenced in the three regularly scheduled concerts, presented in the main lounge of the Iowa Union. Other schools were audience to the band, as a choice 60-piece unit completed a series of 14 concerts while on tour through Des Moines and other various cities throughout southern and western Iowa. A concert presented by the combined bands is given in the spring, when gold keys are awarded musicians having participated in the concert band for six semesters or having played with the varsity group for eight semesters. These awards are made available by "I" Club alumni of the university.

CHORUS

Each Tuesday and Thursday evening found many SUItes heading for east campus and the music rehearsal hall. A blending of 180 collegiate voices made this year's university chorus concerts again a credit to Director Herald I. Stark. Assisted by Charles Davis, Professor Stark conducted four formal concerts during the season. At Christmas time, the group presented its audience with the traditional Messiah, and the last of the scheduled performances also featured orchestra accompaniment. During the two regularly scheduled performances, such compositions as Howard Hansen's "Lament for Beowulf" were presented, along with SUI graduate Marshall Barnes' "Dirge of Four Cities," sung May 24. Student soloists were given opportunities to appear with the chorus, and a total of four concerts were presented this year. Accompanists for the group were Marion Pantel and Dorothy Krebil.

"YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU"

The eccentric Sycamores caper through "You Can't Take It With You", the first play of the 1949-1950 University theatre season, in the setting of a most unconventional household. The family is presided over by Grandpa Vanderhaf, who has an aversion to work and prefers to spend his time attending commencement exercises at Columbia University.

DRAMATIC ARTS

Rich young Tony Kirby, fiance of the only sane member of the family, is amazed when introduced to his inlaws, including Essie, a ballet dancer; her xylophone-playing husband, Ed; Mr. DePinna, a skyrocket manufacturer, and various others. After a riotous second act, most of the group lands in jail but eventually are extricated in the final act for a happy ending.

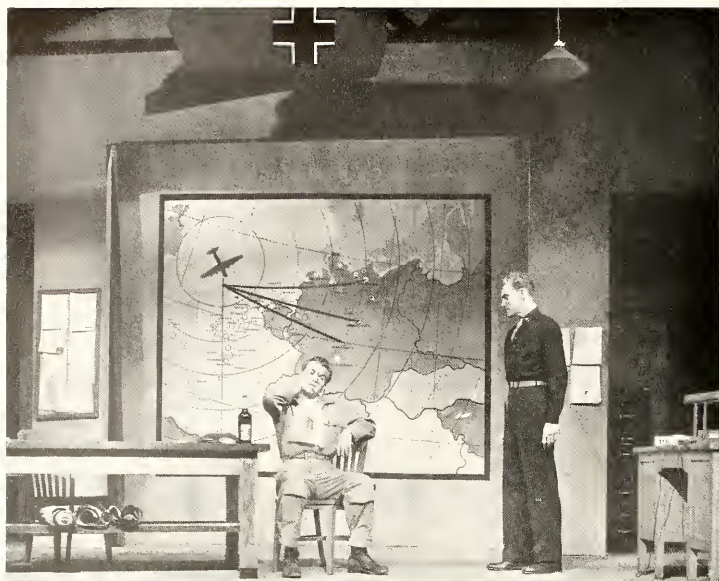

This highly-styled sophisticated play by Philip Barry add the undercurrents of serious thought running through it made it a fresh and appealing production. The rebellious daughter of a millionaire, fed up with society life and her class-conscious family finds companionship with a man whose philosophy of life is similar to hers.

"HOLIDAY"

Comedy fairly ripples through this play and is due in large part to the heroine and her unorthodox friends, a blase and completely happy young married couple. Influenced by this couple and her desire for freedom, she runs away with her understanding friend to find complete happiness. In the scenes involving these four persons, the audiences found some of the best acting of the season.

An all-male cast of 18, chiefly Army personnel, were seen against the background of the somewhat severe headquarters of a USAF bomber group in Europe, in this play by William W. Haines. The play showed the struggles of a general determined to prove the worth of precision bombardment despite heavy casualties and much criticism.

"COMMAND DECISION"

"GI" atmosphere was captured in the play by an abundance of khaki, OD, army discipline, and agonizing red tape. The realistic army touches, the problems and trials of command, and the tremendous importance of air in a complex but biting tale portrayed a thoughtful reminder of a war not too far in the past and what it took to win it.

ART FOR ART'S SAKE

A meeting of ancient and modern at the hands of a class in creative sculpturing. Inhibitions and the tendency to conform to tradition are cast aside as students mold futures in art with clay and stone.

Pigments mingle to produce a still life canvas as complex in design as the artist's smock . . . Given a candid perspective, the painter's work is scrutinized with an eye to improvement.

The Student Council is the central governing body at SUI for student views and problems. The council's 17 members are elected by student voters. Four are delegates-at-large and the others represent campus groups, including four dormitories, the women's co-ops, married students, Panhellenic association, Interfraternity council, the professional colleges and town men and women. Council members are elected in the spring and serve for one year. Many campus projects were carried on by the council, including the Campus Chest drive, a program of freshman orientation and the all-campus elections. The council was also active in the National Student association and in setting up an office of public relations. In the spring an all-university congress was held under the leadership of the council. Some 300 student leaders at SUI met to discuss common student government problems.

REGISTRATION COMMITTEE

The registration committee is vitally important to SUI since it serves both faculty advisors and students. Because the advisors have their time consumed by regular instructive and advisory capacities, Dr. H. Clay Harshbarger, secretary of the liberal arts advisory office, helped form a committee in 1945 to alleviate the routine jobs of the advisors. This committee is composed of junior and senior women who are selected from all housing units. At the beginning of each fall semester the committee aids students with schedules and helps to arrange conferences with advisors. This leaves free the time necessary for the faculty to help their students formulate objectives and complete the required course list. Working at its greatest peak this year, the registration committee was highly successful in fulfilling its purposes.

The Collegiate Chamber of Commerce is an active organization of 250 members interested in commerce. A board of directors meets bi-weekly to outline future projects. Among the programs arranged by the chamber this year were monthly panel discussions on "Problems of the Small Businessman." Guest speakers from Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Iowa City and surrounding areas were presented at these meetings. Industrial tours of firms in Davenport and Rock Island were also arranged by the organization. "The Commerce Mart," annual informal dance sponsored by the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, was held Nov. 5 at the Iowa Union, with Larry Barrett's orchestra. The annual spring Careers conference again was the climax of the season's events for commerce men and women. A two-day program attracted outstanding professional speakers from the business world.

"To initiate, promote and control student activities of all types, which shall be held in or around the Iowa Union building," is the purpose of the 16-member Iowa Student Union board. The group serves as a middle-man between the SUJ students and their center of activities—the Iowa Union. Members of the Union board are chosen by campus voters at the general elections in the spring. This year the Union board sponsored Sunday and Wednesday afternoon tea dances, the Carnival of Bands, a Christmas party, after-game open houses and had a representative who served on the joint student-faculty committee which planned the 1949 homecoming weekend festivities.

UNION BOARD SUBCOMMITTEES

The Union board sub-committee members are 48 students chosen by the Union board to represent each of the colleges. Members gain experience and training necessary for possible Union board service. Committees plan the regular activities at the Union during the year. Tournaments, including bridge, canasta, chess and ping-pong, were planned and supervised by the committee members. Other committees planned art shows, movies, "library chats," and the Christmas party. Dances were held each Sunday and Wednesday afternoons and after games. These were popular events, as were the Meyers-Cortimiglia jam sessions. The new publicity committee published a calendar of social events held at the Union and had charge of the publicity for Union board activities.

STUDENT FEDERALISTS

Advancing their concepts of world peace through world government, the Iowa chapter of the United World Federalists sent Vice-President Jim McKinney and Delegate Frank Blick to the national convention at Cleveland during October. With President William Shuttleworth leading fifty UWF advocates, the campus organization studied international problems and contributed their ideas towards attaining workable solutions. The group's national board of advisors included Raymond Gram Swing, Norman Cousins and Author Allen Cranston, president of the national organization. Twice monthly the SUI student federalists assembled to discuss their part in the campaign for peace and to hear such speakers as Norman Cousins, Vernon Nash and Harlan Miller. Through the medium of the UWF speakers' bureau, members lectured to explain their ideals to other campus groups.

"Bridal Workshop" presented the practical side of marriage and homemaking. This year the Homecoming Mum sale was sponsored by the Freshman Y. The annual "Silver Tea" was presented at the home of President and Mrs. Hancher by the social committee. At Thanksgiving and Christmas times the social welfare committee packed boxes of food and clothing for the poor. The religious emphasis committee planned worship services.

STUDENT ART GUILD

The student Art Guild serves as a social organization for art students, sponsoring two mixers during the year and also two series of six films during each semester. The films—both American and foreign—were designed to bring entertainment and information particularly along the lines of art techniques, and were open to the public as a service of the Guild. In March members organized a trip to the Chicago Art Institute for a special showing of a Vincent Van Gogh collection. In April, the Guild sponsored the annual art exhibit for student work.

February marked the 10th anniversary of the Iowa Mountaineers, one of the most unique and colorful clubs on campus and the largest college group of its kind. The year brought widespread publicity to the record-breaking membership of over 1,000 lovers of travel and adventure. Travelogue programs attracted more than 15,000 persons. The Mountaineers' schedule listed 23 outdoor activities, among which was a summer climbing expedition in the mountains of the Pacific Northwest. Emphasis was centered on safety through a first aid course offered early in the year, and the sponsoring of an accredited course entitled "Outings and Mountaineering." These precautions resulted in a record unmarred by serious accidents, a feat not often paralleled by mountaineering groups. Social activities centered upon the Iowa Mountaineer clubhouse. Members contributed a float to the Homecoming parade. All activities of the club were chronicled in "The Iowa Climber." An annual award banquet recognizes outstanding accomplishments by club members.

With November came the Campus Chest drive and its appeal to SUlowans for their contributions. Chairman of the 1949 drive was Bob Kramer. A total collection of more than $2,900 was reached before the campaign closed November 16. Gil Pearlman, Mary Lou Anneberg, Etta Mueller and Anne Gilson served on the executive committee, while staff members Wanda Dodd, Merry West and Marvin Pomerantz maintained financial accounts. The fifth in a series of annual opportunities for students to aid other students, Campus Chest funds are being shared by the United Negro College fund, the World Student Service fund, CARE and the American Cancer Society. Honorary chairman this year was Dr. Earl J. McGrath, former dean of the College of Liberal Arts at SUI, now U. S. Commissioner of Education.

The organization made it possible for Masons attending SUL from all over the world to unite, to get acquainted, to keep posted on Masonic procedure and rituals and to participate in social activities. This year the Trestle board had the privilege of hearing outstanding speakers, some of whom were Masons on the faculty at SUL.

IOWA DAMES

The University of Iowa Dames ratified the constitution of the national association of university dames in February, 1922. There are 94 active members in Beta chapter here at Iowa. The objects of the club are to promote friendliness and to provide social activities. All wives of university students are eligible to become members. A social chairman is in charge of rush periods in October and February which consist of a coffee party and a bridge party, followed by initiation. December 14 the Iowa Dames sponsored a Christmas party organized by Mrs. Jack P. Hand which included bridge and exchange of gifts. They participated in a square dance January 18 in the community building at which the Hick Hawks, Iowa square dancing club, performed. The annual picnic for members and families was in May. The Iowa Dames have monthly bridge parties and business meetings. Mrs. John Dusch is in charge of programs for meetings, Mrs. Ralph Blunck of the sewing club, Mrs. John Blauer of the book club and Mrs. William Sievers of dessert bridge parties.

"RELIGION IN LIFE" WEEK

Religion in Life week is set aside for an intensified program bringing religion and its practical applications to daily life on the university campus. "Fiction, Fact, and Faith" was the theme of this year's program. The week began Sunday, Feb. 19, which was designated as the "World Student Day of Prayer" for 1950. It opened with a convocation for all students, conducted by Dr. Liston Pope, dean of the divinity school at Yale University. All religious groups participated in the activities. Speakers from various fields in religion addressed university classes throughout the week, and seminars were held in the afternoons for all students. Current secular and theological problems were discussed in the seminars. In the evenings, clergymen participating in the program were guest speakers at housing units. Discussions were held at nine p. m. in the houses and at the religious student centers in Iowa City. A Bible study was conducted by William Easton for all students on Friday afternoon and all day Saturday to finish the week.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN COUNCIL

The Student Christian council is a representative body of all student religious groups on campus. It performs a coordinating function between various Christian student groups, the religious advisory council and the school of religion. In the past year this group has sponsored or has aided in sponsoring many activities. These activities included the World Student Day of Prayer service, Religion in Life week and the Easter Sunrise service. The council was also responsible for the Midwest United Student Christian conference which was held March 17 through March 19. One of the guest speakers was Mr. Parker Rossman, associate executive secretary of the United Christian council from the national office in New York. Another speaker was Miss Ruth Seabury of the Danforth foundation. "Ecumenicity" was the theme for the conference which included students from many universities and colleges within a 300 mile radius in the midwest.

Disciples of Student Fellowship

Composed of two student groups, the Bethany group for single students and the Kum-Dubl group for young marrieds, the Disciples of Student Fellowship played an active part in the religious life on the campus. Every other Sunday a deputation team conducted church services at Oak Grove and conducted morning worship. On Thursday afternoons a coffee hour was held, with a special speaker leading a discussion in various aspects of Christian faith. Married students participated in a project to bring a German student to SU1 for one year. The Bethany group held several retreats at Macbride, where future programs were planned.

Canterbury Club

Highlighting the year of the Episcopal church group was the sponsoring of a presentation of T. S. Eliot's play, "Murder in the Cathedral", acted by the Cathedral Players of Davenport. Both performances were for capacity audiences. Another project aimed at a better understanding of the church was a Lenten program which consisted of a series of lectures explaining Christian doctrine. In addition to being active in all parish activities throughout the year, the group entertained the Westminster Foundation, caroled at the University hospital, played an important part in Religion and Life Week, and entertained guest speakers who led discussions on current topics of interest.

Hillel Foundation

Centered upon a desire to better understand their religion and to help others, the Hillel Foundation held their annual Hillel forum with professors from three universities as guest speakers. Further discussions were attended every Saturday afternoon for a more thorough understanding of the Midrush, and Sunday night suppers were followed by an informal program. One of the main projects carried on by Hillel was the adoption of a French child, clothed and supported by the SUJ group. One of the highlights of the year was the annual parents' banquet. At this time Hillel keys were presented to members of the organization for outstanding work displayed in campus activities.

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta, under the supervision of Rev. John Choitz and Howard Choitz, local president of the group, spent an eventful year on the Iowa campus. Students attended two conventions of the international association—one in Minneapolis and the other in Ames. Representatives from Cedar Falls and Ames attended the Lakes Region Seminar, sponsored by the SUJ chapter of the Missouri Synod Lutheran church. Iowa members began a campaign for mission work in Japan. Sunday evenings included vesper services, luncheons, and social hours or discussion meetings. Picnics were held in the fall and spring, and the annual banquet was presented in the church basement.

Kappa Phi

The purpose of Kappa Phi, national Methodist club, is to train young women on campus to become active in Christian leadership in their communities. The group held bi-weekly meetings featuring lectures, discussions and programs by the members. Mrs. Howard LeSourd, national sponsor of the organization, visited the SUI chapter in the spring and spoke at the formal spring banquet. The main social activity of the club was a Valentine party with men of the Wesley Foundation as guests of the club. The organization also held a Rose tea in the fall and in the spring it awarded the Degree of Rose to its graduating seniors.

Lutheran Students Association

The Lutheran Students association, now in its 28th year on campus, is part of an international group with units throughout the U. S. and in Canada. Led by Duane Mortenson, the association is sponsoring a Latvian displaced person who is to come to SUI in September to study nursing. They also sent shipments of food and clothing to students at the University of Gottingen, Germany. Social events of the group included a hayride in the fall, a talent party with performances by members, a party celebrating the third birthday of the house and a combination smorgasbord party and Christmas pageant in December.

Roger Williams

A full schedule of activities kept members of the Roger Williams fellowship busy this year. Religious activities included the Palm Sunday communion breakfast, regular Sunday evening vesper services and the spring retreat at Palisades park, where next year's activities were planned. Among events on the social schedule were a hayride and horseback trailride in the fall, two square dances with the Disciples' Student fellowship, and a Christmas smorgasbord with members of the International club as guests. They also participated in the student council displaced persons program.

Wesley Foundation

Members of Wesley Foundation had a year full of activities under the leadership of President Henry Jaeckel. In the fall several students attended a conference at Ames, and 28 went to the Iowa State Methodist Student Movement Conference at Des Moines. Social events included a Christmas Chanukah party sponsored by Wesley and Hillel. The Wesley Players presented four plays during the year, winding up in May with the production of "The Importance of Being Earnest." WESUI, a publication of the Foundation, was edited bi-weekly by members. Highlights of the term also included a hayride in the fall and a picnic in May. Graduate students participated in activities through a Handicrafts group and the Wesley Wives.

Westminster Foundation

Guided by the executive committee, the Westminster Foundation, a national organization of Presbyterian students, enjoyed a year of fellowship and accomplishment. The "Mr. and Mrs." club was again active for married students. The Iowa City group was host to numerous other Iowa colleges at the state conference of the foundation in April. The council of fifty students planned and organized Sunday evening twilight vesper services, followed by informal suppers and devotion programs of Bible study during the week. The lounge of the student center was open daily, and monthly parties highlighted the Presbyterian students' year.

United Student Fellowship

For a friendly chat and a cup of coffee on Friday afternoons after classes or for a quiet place to study, Congregational students found their answer in the informal atmosphere of the student center. Though the activities of this group were mainly social, they busied themselves raising money to bring a foreign student to the campus next year and collected clothing for alumni at Kobe College in Japan. Also prominent among projects for the year was contributing $100 for a scholarship to be used by a Japanese student and money to bring another Japanese student to Iowa. These functions, in addition to a regular meeting every Sunday featuring supper and a discussion afterwards, rounded out the activities for the year.

NEWMAN CLUB

Newman club, national Catholic students' organization, serves its members through religious, educational and social activities. Religious activities included Communion breakfasts, a retreat and catechism classes taught at the children's hospital. The educational activities included panel discussions on current topics, weekly meetings conducted by Father Welch, at which religious subjects were discussed and a series of marriage lectures in May with guest speakers. Main events of the social season were a square dance in October, a Christmas party, the Harvest Holiday dance in November at which the Newman queen and attendants were presented and a Catholic students' mixer in the fall. For the seventh year the Newman club sponsored Kampus Kapers, all-university variety show directed by Jack Pedersen. The cast gave a benefit performance of the show to aid the March of Dimes Drive.

MILITARY

COLONEL W. W. JENNA

Colonel Jenna was born in New Hampshire in 1895. He received his primary and high school education in Massachusetts. Entering the United States Military academy in 1914, he graduated as a second lieutenant of infantry in August, 1917. He served overseas during and after World War I. His service has been varied and includes positions as an instructor and then associate professor of modern languages at the United States Military academy. During World War II, he commanded the 54th Infantry regiment for three years. The regiment participated in combat at Hollandia, Biak, Leyte, Luzon, Corregidor, Mindoro and Mindanao. He reported to this university on July 24, 1946, and has been professor of military science and tactics and head of the military department since then.

MAJOR I. M. PARSONS

Major Irvin M. Parsons was born on December 17, 1917, in Watertown, South Dakota. He moved to Iowa City in 1929 and attended City High school. He attended the University of Iowa and graduated in February, 1947. Major Parsons graduated from flying school and was commissioned in the air corps in March, 1942. He was commissioned into the regular Air Force in July, 1947. He was assigned to the University of Iowa in September, 1946. In June, 1949, he became the first professor of air science and tactics. He served overseas in the Caribbean theatre and the Pacific theatre. He received the air medal with four oak leaf clusters.

PERSHING RIFLES

Pershing Rifles Honor Military society was founded by the late General John J. Pershing in 1894. Its purpose is to further the highest ideals of the military profession. The SUI company was formed in 1929 and is active in extra-curricular activities of the military department, such as providing honor guards at American Legion funerals, flag raising details and other military exhibitions. Iowa won first place in squad drill in the 1948 meet at Minneapolis, and in 1949 at Madison. Permission was granted for the unit to use a national guard airplane for transportation to the third regimental drill meet at Champaign, Illinois, March 10-11, 1950. At this meet the unit won first places in both platoon and exhibition drills.

BILLY MITCHELL SQUADRON

Four years ago the Billy Mitchell squadron was created on this campus by the advanced air R.O.T.C. students to further the purpose, traditions and concept of the United States air force. Now it has the additional function of increasing cooperation between the services in the interest of national defense. Cooperation between the army and air force units, which is one of the goals of service unification, has always been evident in SUI's R.O.T.C. organization. The Billy Mitchell squadron is now composed not only of qualified advanced students, but also sophomores of high standing in the air R.O.T.C. In order to meet the objective of the organization, use has been made of all types of military films and of lectures by qualified personnel. Looking to the future, the aim of the Billy Mitchell squadron is to become a recognized national society.

Cadet Colonel attendants as they were escorted to their presentation during intermission.

MILITARY BALL

With a background of military insignia and the combination of uniforms and formal dress, Iowa Union was a colorful scene.

The band played on while ROTC men or ex-GI's entertained their dates at a traditional SUI dance.

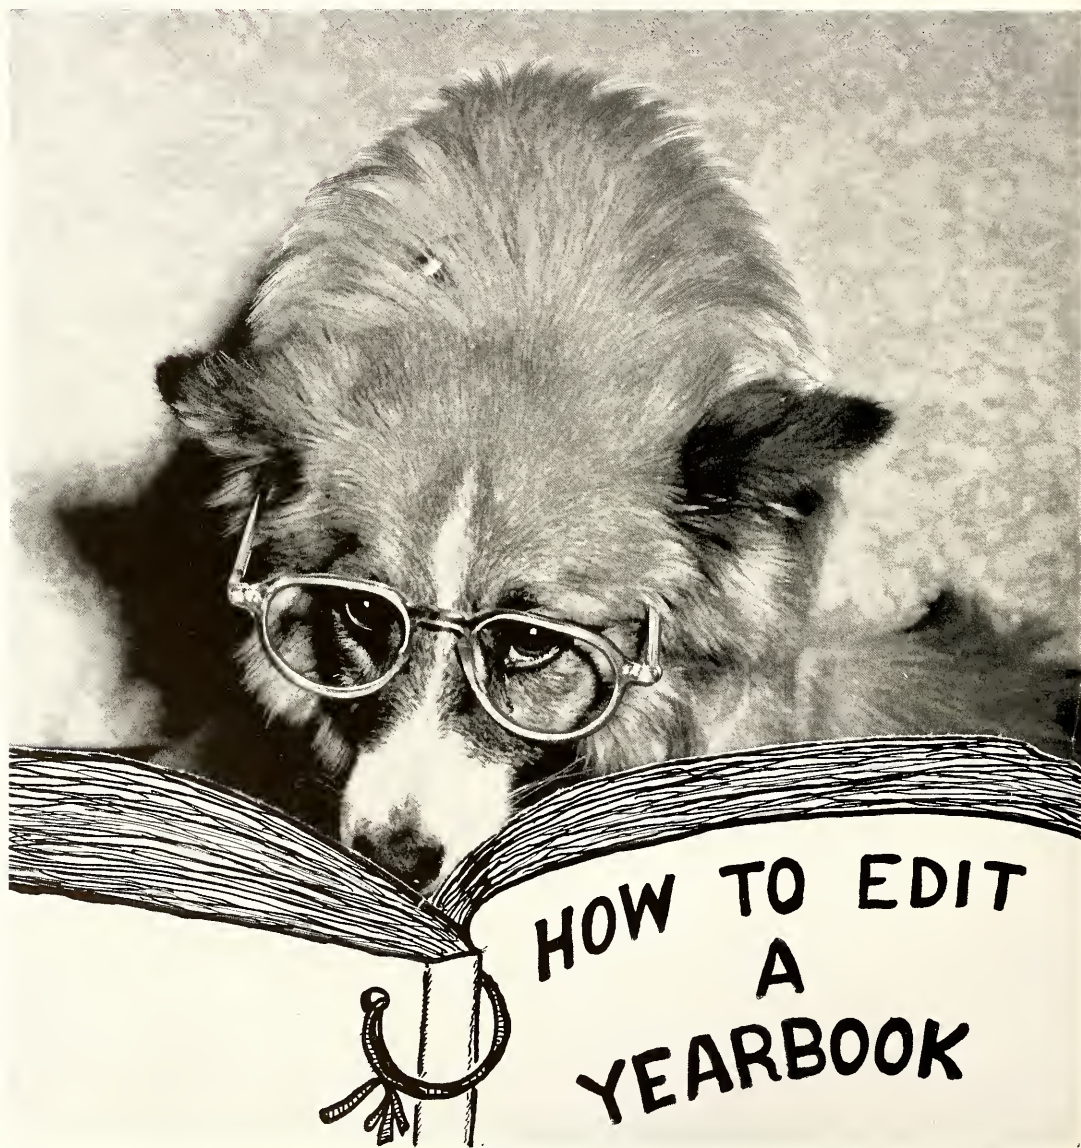

HIGHLANDERS

Garbed in their authentic Scottish costumes, Iowa's Scottish Highlanders continue to be the university's colorful ambassadors of good will. They have established a record of traveling to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts in successive summers. During their 12 years on the campus, they have traveled more than 40,000 miles through 28 states and Canada. They have performed before 3,300,000 people. If their plans are successful, the Highlanders will tour Europe during the summer of 1951. The largest Scottish bagpipe band in the world and the only all-bagpipe band sponsored by an American university, the Highlanders are becoming increasingly well-known. Their marching and dancing routines at the football games have added color and novelty to the pageantry. They began in 1937 as a male unit, but were reorganized in 1943 as an all-girl band. Instructor and director is Pipe Major William L. Adamson.

"YOU WANT TO HELP EDIT HAWKEYE?"

SQUAWKEYE

After romping through this many pages of HAWKEYE, Herky almost crawled back into his shell, but the yearbook staff deterred him in time . . . it seems that Herky felt much like they did—just plain tired! However, both he and they wanted to tell the other 9,030 students at Iowa that this HAWKEYE is the best the staff could produce.

No yearbook has ever been perfect, and this one probably has the usual number of mistakes and omissions . . . those are the results of a hectic and hurried year; perhaps a lack of experience among the staff, and the usual human failings. As the worried editor on the opposite page said, "Uh—we done our best but nobody told us the job would be so darn confusin'!"

"Ya mean we missed a deadline? Seems like yesterday the assignments were given..."

"Our office conditions weren't the best, but what could ya expect from a temporary hut?"

"After the 2,219th senior picture, they all begin to look alike. . . ."

"You'll find that putting out the yearbook will be a great experience. It isn't as hard as it looks. Just a matter of organization. A lot of fun. Something to always remember. . . ."

"BUT YOU DIDN'T TELL US IT WAS SO MUCH WORK . . .

Book Four

SENIORS

Commencement seemed like something that would never arrive . . . there was the mistake at the registrar's office, when they said you were two hours short . . . but it turned out that an absent-minded professor had forgotten to turn in your final grade . . . and after the last late hour cram-session, the final multiple guess exam, and the finished term paper, you were clad in cap and gown, sad and glad to leave the university.
